FALL ETHIOPIAN CAPITAL NEAR

ITALIANS REPORT CAPTURE IMPORTANT ENEMY STRONGHOLD

ROME AUTHORITIES REPORT ITALO-BRITISH TENSION IS DIMINISHING

By GEORGE C. JORDAN
(Copyright, 1936, by Associated Press)

ROME, April 30.—Italian press dispatches said today that Marshal Pietro Badoglio's troops had arrived on the high plateau leading to Addis Ababa and were within artillery shot of the Ethiopian capital.

These reports said the motorized column of fighters had passed well beyond Derba Bihran, the sacred city of Shoa.

Late in the afternoon, an unconfirmed press dispatch declared that the advance guard of the motorized column had entered Addis Ababa at 10 a. m.

(Throughout the campaign, Italian columns have moved forward with their advance guards far in the van of the main bodies of troops.)

Earlier in the day, Marshal Badoglio reported that Sasa Baneh, the gateway to Ethiopia's second city of Harar, had been taken by storm yesterday.

Sasa Baneh was taken, he said as a climax to many days' bitter fighting.

His report came as authorities here said tension between Italy and Great Britain was relaxing and that the danger of a European war resulting from the Italian campaign was diminishing.

Meanwhile, on the northern front, the fall of Addis Ababa appeared imminent, Badoglio reporting that the motorized advance on the capital was continuing.

Another Italian column, advancing from Lake Tana, took Bebra Tabor, east of the lake.

As this column advanced, its operations were directed by seaplanes flying from their new base on Ethiopia's vast lake reservoir for the Nile.

Defense Was Bitter.

Badoglio's communique said, in part:

"The powerful line of fortifications at Sasa Baneh and Bullaleh, designed and constructed by Belgian and Turkish officers, and

TEXAS CENTENNIAL TOURISTS RECEIVED AT WHITE HOUSE

BUSINESS AND NEWSPAPER MEN GREETED BY PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT THURSDAY

WASHINGTON, April 30.—(AP)—Accompanied by Senators Sheppard and Connally, a group of 100 Texans called on President Roosevelt at the White House today to renew an invitation to the executive to visit the Texas Centennial celebration opening at Dallas, June 6.

The visitors, including 32 redcoated bandsmen who left their instruments behind, filed through the executive offices and shook hands with the President.

The Texas senators said afterward the executive still hoped to attend the celebration, but that it depended on when congress adjourns.

Mr. Roosevelt has said he would like to leave Washington around June 1 and probably could go to Texas even if congress was still in session a week after that. If congress remained in session longer, he believes he will have to postpone the trip to later in the year.

SECRETARY HULL SEES RISING DANGER OF NEW WORLD WAR

EXCESSIVE TRADE BARRIERS ATTACKED AT CLOSING SESSION U. S. CHAMBER

By JAMES R. BRACKETT
Associated Press Staff Writer.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—(AP)—Declaring that there is a "rising danger" of a catastriphic world war, Secretary Hull today attacked what he termed the "supreme folly" of "excessive" trade barriers.

A revival of world trade through a lowering of such barriers is necessary to halt the "virulent disease" of economic distress, social unrest, dictatorships and war, Hull declared in a speech prepared for delivery to the closing session of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

"Only as the world's economic health is restored will individuals and nations develop again adequate resistance to the psychological madness that makes possible internal and external strife," the secretary of state said.

Describing the new deal reciprocal trade policy, Hull said that if it were scrapped, the nation would take a "fatal" step backward. This was a reply to critics, in congress and elsewhere, who demand repeal of the trade agreements act.

Repeal, Hull said, would mean that the nation would go back to the Smoot-Hawley tariff and a

BUILDING TRADES REPORT BUSINESS TO BE IMPROVING

APARTMENT HOUSES AND OTHER MODERN RENT PROPERTY IS NEEDED

Building activities in Corsicana are maintaining a steady pace with a majority of the available mechanics busy and the industry in a generally healthy condition according to the views of the various material dealers of the city.

A majority of the local yards report that business is slightly improved over the 1935 levels, and all of them agreed that the present steady pace was more to be desired than a "boom" period with its inevitable recession period to follow.

Much of the work done so far this year has been classified as repairs or modernization, with considerable termite prevention work, and a fair amount of new construction. Building permits to date show more than $30,000 has been completed or is now under way for the first four months of the calendar year, or about twenty-five per cent behind the 1935 record. The deficit was quickly accounted for by the material dealers who recalled the weeks of exceptionally extreme weather earlier this year.

Rent Houses Needed.

The lumber yard officials also indicated that sustained interest was being shown in new construction and that it was entirely probable that work would be started soon on some apartment homes, and modern rental property. It was pointed out that desirable houses were not available in Corsicana and that considerable demand for homes is being made on rental and realty agents, and with prospects that

IOWA PATROLMAN DIES OF WOUNDS FROM BANDIT GUN

ATTEMPT KIDNAP OFFICER PROVES FATAL TO BOTH PARTICIPANTS

MUSCATINE, Ia., April 30.—(AP)—State Highway Patrolman Oran H. Pape—former University of Iowa football star who proved as heroic in a gun battle as he was in the gridiron succumbed early today to a wound inflicted by a bandit he killed in a desperate struggle.

The former Hawkeye grid star died after an emergency operation and a blood transfusion a few hours after he slew Roscoe R. Barton, 23, in a hand to hand fight yesterday.

Pape, 28, encountered Barton on the highway near Fairport and stopped his car to investigate. As he approached, Barton drew a gun, ordered Pape into the car with him and started to drive away.

Pape grabbed for the pistol with which he was covered. Barton fired point blank, wounding the officer in the abdomen.

Pape then wrested the weapon away and sent a bullet through the gunman's head.

With the aid of finger prints, Pape's slain foe was identified as Barton by Police Chief Sam Kelly of Davenport, Ia., Barton's home. Kelly said Barton was involved in a robbery of the Davenport armory in 1934.

STATE RESTS CASE IN MURDER TRIAL OF GREENVILLE WOMAN

LATEST LOVE AFFAIR OF MRS. VELMA PATTERSON IS MENTIONED AGAIN

GREENVILLE, April 30. (AP)—The latest love affair of Mrs. Velma Patterson, already hinted as a possible motive for the alleged poisoning of her little daughter, Dorothy, was mentioned again today as the state closed its murder case against the thrice-married brunette.

The prosecution wound up its case at 11.10 a. m. and Judge Charles Berry recessed court until afternoon, when the defense will begin its efforts to break down the circumstantial evidence presented against the woman.

In closing testimony, Fred Patterson of Commerce, brother of Mrs. Patterson's third husband, Bill, said that after the death of Dorothy McCasland, 12, Mrs. Patterson told him she was in love with Jimmy Wallace, Lone Oak cattleman.

Fred Patterson quoted the woman as saying she was "thinking of marrying him (Wallace).

"I wonder what my family would think about it?" the witness said Mrs. Patterson asked him.

Annie Cooper, maid in the Patterson home at Commerce, previously had revealed that Mrs. Patterson was "deeply in love" with Wallace and had said she "would marry him if it wasn't for the children."

RECORD PEACE-TIME NAVAL FINANCE BILL REPORTED TO HOUSE

MORE THAN HALF BILLION DOLLARS PROVIDED IN FAVORED MEASURE

WASHINGTON, April 30.—(AP)—A record peace-time naval appropriations bill providing $531,068,707 for adding more ships, air fighters and men to the nation's sea defenses was approved today by the house appropriations committee.

Authority to build two new battleships was granted—provided any foreign signatory of a naval treaty should begin capital ship replacement.

Frankly stating it had in mind the apparent mandate of congress in the Vinson-Trammell treaty—naval act of "a navy second to none," the appropriations committee said its bill would add to funds otherwise available to give the navy $592,287,707 during the 1937 fiscal year beginning July 1.

The bill's total was $49,337,328 above the 1936 appropriations of $481,731,379 but $18,522,592 under the $549,591,299 budget estimates.

Although specific amounts were not allotted for starting the battleships, Admiral William H. Standley, chief of naval aperations, has told the house naval committe funds were available for beginning work on the vessels.

The bill allowed $168,500,000 for continuing construction on 84 vessels of various types, exclusive of battleships, and laying down 12 new destroyers and 6 new submarines. This leaves 23 destroyers and 8 submarines unprovided for

MORGENTHAU URGES ADDITIONAL TAXES AT SENATE HEARING

WARNS COMMITTEE THAT NEW TAX BILL FAILS PROVIDE ENOUGH REVENUE

WASHINGTON, April 30.—(AP)—A treasury deficit of $5,966,000,000—the biggest in peacetime history—was forecast by Secretary Morgenthau for the current fiscal year today in urging congressional enactment of President Roosevelt's full tax program.

Morgenthau said repayment of the bonus was partly responsible for the huge figure by which he said expenditures would exceed income in the 12-months ending June 30.

In recommending that the senate add to the $803,000,000 house tax bill the temporary processing taxes asked by President Roosevelt. Morgenthau also estimated that the 1937 deficit would be $2,675,000,000.

He said that except for the bonus payment voted by congress, there would have been declining deficits in both years. In his budget message Mr. Roosevelt had emphasized that the treasury deficits were declining.

Morgenthau's deficit estimates were given as he was questioned by the senate finance committee, after reading a statement advocating enactment of the chief executive's tax recommendations in order to protect federal credit.

Appearing as the first witness as the finance committee opened hearings on the bill passed yesterday by a 267 to 93 house vote, the treasury chief said federal credit depended upon "scrupulous

BRIGHT PROSPECT FOR AGRICULTURE NAVARRO COUNTY

FARMERS EXTREMELY OPTIMISTIC FOLLOWING RECENT HEAVY RAIN

Farmers of Navarro county are extremely optimistic as they start to work following the heavy rain of last Tuesday morning. They see bright prospects of getting cotton and late feed crops off to a good start since there is plenty of moisture in the ground and the weather is warm.

The rain Tuesday, combined with the showers that covered a large part of the county last week put the land in excellent condidion for planting cotton and row feed crops as well as working corn and other crops that were already up.

There is plenty of time for cotton and some feed crops that are to be planted and with anything like a normal growing season the farmers expect to reap an average harvest. They have been busy during the past week signing up with the government in the soil conservation and building program for which they will receive considerable money. Indications at present time are that the farmers will plant just about the same acreage in cotton that they had last year. Feed, soil conserving and improving crops will take the remainder of the land.

BI-STATE HEARING ON RODESSA FIELD BEING DISCUSSED

NUMBER SPECIAL ORDERS ENTERED IN VARIOUS TEXAS AREAS

AUSTIN, April 30.—(AP)—Chairman E. O. Thompson of the Texas Railroad commission announced today he was conferring with Louisiana authorities on a joint proration hearing for the bi-state Rodessa field.

Thompson said the Texas Oil and Gas conservation agency believed sufficient engineering data had been assembled to show characteristics of the field necessary to develop joint rules and regulations.

At a joint hearing in Marshall before development of the field several months, Louisiana officials suggested promulgation of regulations should be delayed pending ascertainment of field trends through development in Texas, Thompson said.

The place and time of the proposed joint session were undetermined, Thompson said.

Texas now has six wells in the field, the last being completed Tuesday. Thompson said wells in both states were restricted to 350 barrels daily allowable.

The commission granted exceptions to its rule 37, regulating well spacing, to permit drilling of 196 wells in 28 counties, including 15 on rehearing. Permits for 31

Three Outbursts Of Mob Violence Against Negroes

LEPANTO, Ark., April 30.—(AP)—Three outbursts of mob violence within 48 hours—the slaying of two negroes and a demonstration against a third which was frustrated by national guardsmen—centered attention on the southern race problem today.

All the negroes were accused of crimes against women.

Willie Kees, 19, described by City Marshal Joy May as a "half-witted" petty theif, was shot to death by a band of 10 masked men who wrested him from officers here yesterday.

Tuesday Lint Shaw, 45-year-old negro farmer, fell victim of rifle and shotgun fire of 40 men at the scene of an attempted attack on two white girls near Colbert, Ga. The mob, which broke into a jail to get him, left his body tied to a pine tree.

National guardsmen used tear gas to disperse a throng at Huntsville, Ala., that threatened Walter Miller when he was arraigned yesterday on charges of assaulting and slaying pretty Vivian Woodward, 19.

Miller pleaded innocent. Adjutant Gen. John C. Coleman said troops would guard him at the trial, set for May 11.

Kees, who was accused of attempting assault, was found dead at the edge of Lepanta two hours after he was kidnaped, his wrists wired behind his back and three bullet holes though his body.

INCREASED SALES LARGE DEPARTMENT STORES REPORTED

SEASONAL GAIN SHOWN IN THE ELEVENTH FEDERAL RESERVE DISTRICT BUSINESS

DALLAS, April 30.—(AP)—Increased department store sales in large cities again is reported in the Monthly Business Review of the Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas, released today. "A seasonal gain of 17 per cent as compared with the previous month," the Review states, "was reflected," adding that the increase over the corresponding month last year was nine per cent.

The Review reports that distribution of merchandise at wholesale and retail in the 11th district was well sustained the past month, and buying at wholesale in most reporting lines reflected better than average seasonal changes. The latter was substantially larger than in March, 1935.

Debits to individual accounts at banks in principal cities were eght per cent larger than in

UNRESISTED MARCH OF ITALIANS NEARS ADDIS ABABA TODAY

NATIVES AND HIGH GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS LEAVING CAPITAL HASTILY

(Copyright, 1936, by Associated Press)

ADDIS ABABA, April 30.—(AP)—Emperior Haile Selassie returned to his capital at 4 p. m. today and two hours later entered into a consultation with Cornelius Van H. Engert, minister-resident and consul-general of the United States.

Until his sudden return to the capital, toward which Italian troops were pressing in a long military parade, the whereabouts of the Emperor had been a mystery to the public.

After talking to Mr. Engert, Emperor Haile Selassie received the Associated Press correspondent and declared:

"Ethiopia is not defeated. It will carry on its fight to the last man."

Order will be maintained in the capital until the Italians arrive by Mayor Blatta Takkala Woldehawariate with 10,000 policemen.

One source in the diplomatic corps stated that Woldehawariate had been assured he would be free to join the Ethiopian army once the capital falls.

Before the Emperor came back to his palace the capital was thrown into a panic by the reports that the Italians were near.

Foreigners started to take refuge in the various legations, the Americans going to the British compound.

The northern Italian army, marching in from Dessye, was reported advancing without encountering any resistance.

The advance guard of the fascist forces was expected to reach Addis Ababa by tomorrow.

High government officials were leaving the capital.

A British ambulance unit which returned hurriedly overnight to the capital and reported the Italian advance on Debra Birhan was understood to be going to the interior, either accompanying Ethiopian government officials or joining other units which had

ANTHRACITE COAL OPERATORS, MINERS SEEK AGREEMENT

REPRESENTATIVES OF BOTH SIDES DEADLOCKED OVER WAGE CONTRACT

NEW YORK, April 30.—(AP)—Anthracite operators and United Mine Workers' representatives struggled today against each other and a midnight deadline to avert a disastrous tieup in that $600,000,000 industry.

Barring 11th hour recession by either operators of miners, the joint conference group of 14 representing the two sides which was prepared for conversations today, remained deadlocked on every point of the two-months-old wage contract impasse.

After a late night session of the miners' guiding agency, the full scale committee, John L. Lewis, union president, announced it had received and discussed settlement proposals laid before it by its conference committe. He would make no statement as to the nature of these proposals or the full scale committee's reaction to them.

The present labor pact, effective now under a 30-day extension, expires at midnight (D. S. T.) today union spokesmen said, adding that

YOUN GPORTRAIT PAINTER IS ENTHUSIASTIC OVER "CUTENESS" OF VICE PRESIDENT GARNER

MARY ELIZABETH PLUMMER
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, April 30.—(AP)—Vice-President John Nance Garner was described as "cute" today by Miss Azadia Newman, a young portrait painter who is often told she looks like Joan Crawford.

"He was so cute and so wonderful when I painted him," she said.

Miss Newman who was wearing lemon yellow Chinese pajamas, a half dozen tinkling bracelets and a ring on her forefinger, spoke with similar enthusiasm of Walter Huston, the actor, whom she also painted.

"Sometimes, while Walter Huston was sitting, he threw his head back and declaimed lines from 'Othello'," she recalled. "He was learning that role then.

"He was so wonderful—"

Miss Newman's first one-man show in New York will begin May 5 in the Ehrich-Newhouse galleries. It will include the Garner and Huston portraits and one of U. S. Senator Gore of Oklahoma.

The artist, a native of Washington, D. C., is in her twenties. She has a long titian bob and blue eyes.

Politicians usually have a lot of meaning in their faces, she said, so she likes to paint them. But she detests politics, although her father, the late Edwin A. Newman, was a Democratic national committeeman.

"Vice-President Garner was intrigued because I didn't make him talk politics," she said.

"He called me 'little lady,' and gave me a long discussion about taking care of my teeth."

EXCURSION PARTY OF NORTHERN RESIDENTS VISITED IN CORSICANA OVER FORTY-EIGHT YEARS AGO

Interesting sidelights on the views of northern residents concerning Texas in general, and Corsicana in particular are contained in an account of an excursion party from the north that attended the annual meeting of the Texas loan agency in Corsicana in April 1888, forty-eight years ago this month. An account of the visit to Corsicana is contained in a copy of the Springfield (Mass.) Republican, dated April 25, 1888, now in the possession of Mrs. R. B. Malloy, daughter of the late R. S. Neblett, who was mayor of the city at the time of the excursion.

The account follows:

"Things Noted In Texas" x x x "The Characteristic Hospitality" x x x "Experienced by Northern Excursionists—At Table With Mayor—Festivities of Various Sorts—The Talk of the New South." "From our special correspondent, Corsicana, April 19, 1888, Thursday."

The excursion party from the North, which attended the annual meeting of the Texas loan agency last Monday, was utterly unprepared for the reception given it. Southern hospitality is no rhetorical expression—at least in Central Texas. The mayor of the city, R. S. Neblett, a citizen's committee and a crowd of 300 or 400 were at the station upon the arrival of the Missouri Pacific express from St. Louis Saturday morning. Carriages were in waiting and the visitors were promptly taken to the various residences where they had been assigned by the committee.

Entertained By Mayor.

Your correspondent had the good fortune to be entertained by Mayor Neblett, who is closing his third year of service. As this letter is a string of light incidents and adventure it will not be inappropriate to add that the piece de resistance at the first midday meal was turnip-top salad. It was not really a salad but boiled greens. The young tur-

HIGHWAY COMMISSION AGREES START OPERATION FREE FERRY BETWEEN GALVESTON-BOLIVAR

AUSTIN, April 30.—(AP)—The highway commission today agreed to start operation of a free ferry between Galveston and Port Bolivar tomorrow if Galveston county will insure the ferry boats.

The agreement was negotiated at a conference between Highway Commissioner John Wood and James A. Boddeker and Gus A. Butterrowe, Jr., members of the Galveston county commissioners court. Wood conferred with other members of the state commission by telephone.

Boddeker said he would take a copy of the commission order to Galveston as soon as it was prepared and would advise County Judge E. B. Holman to call a special meeting of the court to ratify the agreement.

"We do not think there will be any controversy over it," he said.

The order also will provide that the boats be furnished by the county and that if increased demands result from the free ferry the county will furnish adequate facilities. The state will operate and maintain the boats. Insurance cost was estimated at between $2,500 and $3,000 annually.

To permit immediate free operation the state will transfer insurance carried on the toll ferry to the county.

The attorney general ruled the state could operate a free ferry but held the commission could not carry insurance on the boats since the state was not liable for damages.

R. W. Weddell, traveling accountant for the highway commission, will attend the special meeting of the county court and was instructed to inaugurate the free service if the county agreed to the state's terms. Weddell also will check out the accounts of the toll ferry.

KING FUAD OF EGYPT DIED TUESDAY AFTER LENGTHY ILLNESS

FRIEND OF BRITISH TO BE SUCCEEDED BY YOUNG SON UNDER REGENCY

CAIRO, Egypt, April 28. (AP)—King Faud I of Egypt, 68-year old friend of the British, died today after a long illness.

The illness was aggravated over the week-end when a gangrenous condition developed in his throat, preventing him from taking nourishment.

Crown Prince Farouk, 16 years old and now attending school in England, will come to the throne under a regency until his 18th birthday.

The regency will be composed of three men whose names were written by King Faud on a sheet of paper, then sealed in an envelope to be opened by the proper authorities.

Premier Alpi Pasha Maher, in making the official announcement of his sovereign's passing, said death came at 1 p. m. local time (7 a. m. Eastern Standard Time).

The news came as a shock to the population of Cairo following earlier reports that the monarch had rallied after a better night.

Only this morning, the king had called his premier and other officials to the palace and insisted on transacting state business, but the gravity of his condition was clear when plans were made for Crown Prince Farouk's departure from England tomorrow.

In Indifferent Health.

Faud, who celebrated his 68th birthday anniversary March 26, had been in indifferent health many months. He had never fully recovered from his serious illness of 1934 when numerous foreign specialists were summoned to the summer palace at Montazah.

At that time, palace sources endeavored to spread the report that the short, thick-set, fair-complexioned king was merely suffering from weakness following a mild attack of influenza.

It now is believed he then was a victim of severe attack of pneurisy which weakened his heart.

The troubled political situation in Cairo, including the revival of the Wafd party strength, leading up to rcent street rioting, the interplay of British and Italian opinion, and the emphasis on military questions made it more difficult for the Egyptian monarch to throw off the lingering effects of his 1934 illness.

Recent Riots

His death came at a time when Anglo-Egyptian relations had only recently progressed from the riot stage, caused by agitators, to peaceful negotiations for a treaty of alliance.

To the extent which his death now creates a certain internal instability in Egypt, it is expected to have an adverse effect on British and Egyptian relations and may delay negotiations.

The fact that Crown Prince Farouk is a minor, requiring a regency council until he comes of age on his 18th birthday, further complicates matters politically.

The proper handling of the situation by British officials may, it was pointed out by authorities, do much, on the other hand, to reestablish British prestige and further the idea of Anglo-Egyptian co-operation.

In official circles, the situation is regarded as further complicated by the prevailing tensity in the Mediterranean.

The premier was holding a cabinet meeting when a palace official telephoned him and announced the king's death.

Premier Announces Death.

The premier, stunned with the suddenness of Faud's end after the monarch's surprising early morning rally, communicated the news to the waiting ministers.

All Cairo was wondering today when the sealed envelope, containing the names of Faud's nominees for the regency council of three would be opened. Those eligible for the nomination are princes, former premiers, ministers, former ministers, presidents and former presidents of parliament.

Physicians had been in attendance at the king's bedside throughout the night, anxiously watching for any increase in the gangrene of the jaw which, it was announced last night, had reached Faud's throat.

The weakness of monrach's heart prevented an operation.

During the rally before his death, Faud told his doctors: "I am not going to die."

While the king lay dying in Koubbeh palace, outside the city, thousands of citizens stood about Abdin palace in the center of the city chanting: "God preserve our king."

World War Restored Throne of Pharoahs

Since the days of the Ptolemies twenty centuries ago, there had been no king of Egypt until a combination of strange and romantic circumstances arising out of the Great War raised Ahmed Fuad, the youngest son of the former Khedive Ismail Pasha, from relative obscurity to occupy the famed throne of the ancient Pharoahs.

Egypt had been under the dominion of the Sultans nearly 300 years when the mighty shadow of Napoleon Bonaparte fell across the Pyramids. Britain, however, ousted the Corsicana usurper and was instrumental in restoring the authority of the Sublime Porte.

The accession of the Albanian warrior, Mohammed Ali, to the pashalik of Egypt in 1805 brought great upheavals in its train. Mohammed repeatedly revolted against Turkish overlordship. He eventually succeeded in securing for himself the hereditary viceroyalty of the country, and Ahmed Fuad was the ninth of the line of the dynasty, which the redoubtable Albanian chieftain founded.

Hostile to Allied Cause.

The outbreak of the World War found the then Khedive of Egypt Abbas Hilmi, in Constantinople and hostile to the allied cause. The control of the Suez Canal, the gateway between east and west, became a matter of paramount importance, and when three months later the Sultan of Turkey entered the war as an ally of the Germanic empires, Great Britain at once proceeded to sever the formal tie which still united Egypt to the Ottoman Empire, and proclaimed a British protectorate. Abbas was deposed, and the rulership conferred upon his uncle, Hussein Kamel, with the title of Sultan.

Hussein, however, died in 1917; his son declined the succession, and the British government selected for the sultanate his youngest brother, Ahmed Fuad.

The British protectorate was declared ended on February 28, 1922. Egypt became an independent kingdom, and Sultan Ahmed Fuad assumed the regal status, amid a good deal of nationalist turbulance, on March 15, 1933.

The United States recognized the new regime on April 27, but declined to accept the abolition of capitulations and made this refusal a condition of recognition. Meanwhile, Joseph Morton Howell of Ohio, was appointed first United States minister to the new Egyptian court.

Ahmed Fuad was born at the Gizeh Palace, Cairo, on March 16, 1868.

Began Life Unhappily.

He began life under no happy star. The youngest son of the fourth Khedive Ismail, who died in 1895, leaving 12 children, his youth was passed in Italy, after the debacle of his spendthrift father who was forced to abdicate by the Anglo French dual control. When in the 'nineties he returned to Egypt as a young and rather needy princeling, the then Khedive Abbas Hilmi, his nephew, appointed him his aide de camp.

Prince Fuad, as he then was, could have had no inkling of the glittering future that awaited him. Indeed, had his brother-in-law, another khedivial prince, taken better aim when he leveled his revolver at him in the fashionable Cairo Native Club, another Pharoah would have reigned in Egypt.

But Prince Fuad recovered from his dangerous wound, although a curious nerve reaction of the throat muscles, half laugh, half cough, remained a reminder of this incident.

For many years Prince Fuad had to find such outlet for his energies as were afforded by presiding over benevolent or charitable institutions. He was, for instance, the titular head of the famous El Azhar University.

"It is nothing to be a prince, it is something to be useful," he remarket once to a friend.

Just before the war, Fuad was a candidate for the Albanian throne, which he hoped to secure through his influence with the Italian court. But his chance only came in 1917, and they by accident. His elder brother, Sultan Hussein died, and the latter's son, Kemal-ed-Din, renounced his rights of succession with the truly Oriental phrase :

"I have the best wife and the best horse in the world—why should I want anything more?"

Thus Prince Fuad became Sultan. He lived through many dark years. More than ever he heard the mob howling outside Abdin palace, and he knew that but for British bayonets, another royal tragedy would have been enacted in Cairo.

But he sat tight in due season he became king.

Divorced from his first wife, he had married on May 24, 1919, at the age of 51, Princess Nazli, daughter of Abdel Rahim Sabri Pasha, of Alexandria, 25 years his junior, and the next year Crown Prince Farouk was born. He already had three daughters, the eldest, Fewkies, married Hahmound Fakri Pasha, Egyptian minister in Paris.

Got On Well With Europeans.

With Europeans, Fuad generally got on well. He was fat and jovial, and had a passion for horses and dogs. Distinguished Americans, whether they were financiers, lawyers or business men, were sure of a warm welcome in Cairo. He appreciated their advice on the economic and political reconstruction of his country because of their impartiality and disinterestedness.

Judge Elbert Gary had a high opinion of King Fuad whom the American afterward described as a brilliant conversationalist in five languages and a deep knowledge of history and public events. "He is easily," Judge Gary was reported saying, "the most intellectual sovereign on this side of the Atlantic, and one from whom big things may be expected in the future."

Among other prominent Americans who were at one time or other invited to Abdin palace, were Vice Admiral Andrew T. Long; Max Pam, the eminent Chicago lawyer; Colonel George B. Maclellan, formerly mayor of New York; Major Charles E. Spratt, a New York corporation expert, and George Blumenthal, the New York banker.

Thomas Le Breton, Argentine minister of agriculture, found King Fuad a congenial soul when he visited him in 1926. After a long discussion on all aspects of agriculture, Mr. Le Breton came away with the conviction that King Fuad was a great statesman, with a real sense of the necessitiese of his country, and a resolute intention to do everything for the welfare of his people.

New King Said Be Perfectly Educated

LONDON, April 28—(AP)—Egypt's new king is the 16-year-old Crown Prince Farouk, whose teachers have described him as the "perfectly educated boy."

The death of his father, King Fuad I, came on the even of the prince's planned departure for Cairo from Kenry House, Kingston Hill, where he has been studying for entrance to the Royal Military Academy at Woolwich.

The six-foot prince will rule under a regency until he is 18 years old, his father having left a sealed envelope containing his choice for regents.

Good looking, affable, and unusually mature in appearance, Farouk has been carefully educated from childhood with his father's maxim: "It is nothing to be a prince, but it is something to be useful."

The prince has been a resident of England since last October, living in a large stone mansion with a personal staff. Farouk was not immediately informed of his father's death, pending the receipt of official word from Cairo.

The new king reads widely and is an ardent stamp collector, a good amateur photographer, and all-round sportsman. His favorite sports are boxing, swimming and polo.

When Farouk was 13, King Fuad conferred on him the title "Prince of El Said"—or Prince of Upper Egypt.

Since then he has represented his father at many republic functions. Before leaving Egypt, he represented King Faud at official celebrations in connection with the Prophet Mohammed's birthday anniversary, the great festival in the Egyptian calendar.

His personal staff in England included a teacher of Arabic to insure that he would not forget his native tongue.

News of County Home Demonstration Clubs

Mt. Nebo Club.

The Mt. Nebo Home Demonstration club met Monday, March 27 with 8 members present and 1 visitor. The meeting was called to order by the president, after which the opening exercise was led by playing a game which was enjoyed by all. Our council delegate, Mrs. Goggins, gave a report on the last council meeting. The club has received their cooker for the year and Mrs. Burl Bennett was appointed to keep it.

A very interesting discussion on "Fashion" was presented by Miss Ruth McNabb. Some of the important points brought out were high necklines; shorter skirts; fullness in blouses also sleeves and suits are very good. There is enough style and color this spring for every one and every type of woman. They should know how to choose the most becoming ones for themselves. Smocks, hat and gloves suitable for gardening and yard work were shown, also many other interesting features such as collars, sleeves and points about cutting dresses.

Refreshments of grape-juice and cookies were served to all present.

HEAVY DOWNPOUR IS REPORTED IN EVERY SECTION OF COUNTY

ALL CROPS WILL BE BENEFITED; FEELING OPTIMISM PREVAILS

A general rain over Navarro county early Tuesday morning brought an entire change in the attitude of farmers and businessmen. It changed from one of concern over the crop prospects for the year, due to the extremely dry weather for the season, to one of opimism.

The rainfall in Corsicana was 1.70 inches, the heaviest of the year. Every community in the county reporting a good rain and in most sections the rainfall was estimated as about the same as fell in Corsicana. In Dawson the rainfall was 1.41 inches, according to the government gauge, and Kerens had 1.22 inches. Rice, Emhouse, Barry and Blooming Grove estimated the rainfall at 1.50 inches. Frost, Purdon, Richland, Navarro, Eureka, Roane, Chatfield and other communities reported a rainfall varying from estimates of 1.50 to 1.70 inches.

Previous Rainfall.

Prior to the rain Tuesday morning the rainfall for the year had been 2.50 inches with two snows estimated at one inch each, furnishing soem additional moisture. In January the rainfall was .59 of an inch, but both snows were in that month. February furnished 1.30 inches of rainfall and March only .34 of an inch, making a total of 2.23 inches for the first three months of the year. The April rainfall prior to Tuesday was .27 of an inch. Rainfall to June 28 last year was 11.93 inches.

Farmers can now finish planting cotton. Showers during the past two weeks afforded an opportunity for many farmers to start planting, but a bulk of the work remains to be done. Cotton planted during the past week or ten days will come up as the rain Tuesday morning was warm and not a packing one.

Season is Late.

The season is a little late for cotton, but not enough to make any material difference if a normal season follows. A good subsoil moisture, combined with the rains during the past few days has served to keep farm lands in a reasonably fair condition and prevented extreme damage.

Oats are a little below normal in the county at this time but the rain will add some to the production and will also help mature them. Oats are not as high as usual but the moisture will cause them to run up considerably during the remaining growing period and the farmers will be able to cut them with binders. Many had expressed doubt of being able to harvest oats in the usual manner and were preparing to cut them with mowers if the dry weather prevailed much longer.

Corn will also be benefitted. Showers over most of the county had helped to keep corn from suffering but had not supplied enough moisture to keep it growing as it should. In some sections corn is late and in others a good stand was not secured. With more favorable conditions during the remainder a fair corn crop will be produced.

To Plant Row Crops.

Row crops are expected to fill in as feed crops this season. Many farmers were preparing to plant maize, hegari and other row crops just as soon as a season in the ground would permit. These crops usually produce well here and are being planted by many farmers as a means of diversification which will enable them to get away from the old method of depending upon corn and oats for feed.

Just as soon as the ground dries sufficiently farmers will be busy planting cotton, plowing corn and generally working their land.

Gardens Benefitted.

Small truck and garden farmers are also rejoicing over the rain. Many gardens had almost burned up especially on the heavy black lands.

Trees, shrubs and lawns in the cities which were showing the effect of the dry weather will be revived and city residents will be relieved of watering them regularly.

The skies were heavily overcast most of Tuesday morning and showers fell at intervals indicating that perhaps more rain could be expected. The clouds also prevented the ground from baking and allowed the moisture to soak in slowly.

No hard winds were reported from any section of the county and there were no reports of damage from the lightning which accompanied the rain.

FATHER OF GIRL IS WITNESS PATTERSON CASE ON TUESDAY

M'CASLAND SAYS HE BOUGHT POISON FOR FORMER WIFE BEFORE GIRLS DIED

GREENVILLE, April 28. —(AP)—W. W. (Dester) McCasland testified today that he bought a poison (arsenic) for his former wife, Mrs. Velma Patterson, less than six weeks before their daughter, Dorothy, died, allegedly from poison administered by the woman.

"She sent me to town to buy groceries and arsenic, telling me to charge the arsenic, but I paid for it," McCasland said.

McCasland on direct examination explained that he, the first of Mrs. Patterson's three husbands, was divorced from her in 1929 and, since then, had been farming. He said he farmed for three years near Sulphur Springs and three near Lubbock.

He returned home to visit the children (Dorothy, 12, and her sister, Billie Fae McCasland, 11) each Christmas, he testified. It was on Jan. 7 of this year, when he visited Commerce and saw Mrs. Patterson again, that he said she sent him to buy the poison.

Dorothy died Feb. 17, after begging in her dying moments, McCasland testified, not to be given any more "rest medicine."

"Don't ever give me another dose of rest medicine like mother gave me, it makes me sick," McCasland quoted the dying girl as saying.

McCasland said both he and Mrs. Patterson gave Dorothy medicine but he gave the most from the time he arrived at the Patterson home in Commerce until the child died.

"Twice I left the house and she was better each time," he asserted. "When I returned each time she was worse."

GREENVILLE, April 28.—(AP)—How little Dorothy McCasland begged, as she lay dying, not to be given "another dose of rest medicine like mother gave me," was told in court today by W. W. (Dester) McCasland, father of the child.

McCasland was the first husband of thrice-married Velma Patterson, on trial for her life on a charge of poisoning Dorothy, 12. Mrs. Patterson also is accused of poisoning her other daughter, Billie Fae McCasland, 11. Both children died early this year.

'Dont' ever give me another dose of rest medicine like mother gave me," McCasland quoted Dorothy saying. "It makes me sick."

McCasland said his daughter uttered the words early the morning of Feb. 17, several hours before she died.

He said she made the statement in response to his questions to whether she wanted some "rest medicine."

"I know I'm going to die, and I don't care,' the girl said, according to McCasland. "Little Billie Fae is gone."

Mrs. Patterson, the witness testified, was with hi mat the child's bedside waiting for the arrival of a physican.

"Dorothy begged for a doctor and I asked Mrs. Patterson if we had better call one, but she said, "No, wait until morning.'"

McCasland said Mrs. Patterson "came after him," Tuesday. Feb. 11, at the home of his father near Sulphur Springs and he remained at Dorothy's bedside until Friday.

Found Child Worse.

"When I arrived, she was vomiting, complaining of burning up, but her hands and feet were cold," he testified. "She improved and I returned to father's home Friday and went back Saturday. She was worse, vomiting, cramping and begging for water."

At 2 a. m. Monday McCasland said the child became worse.

"At 1 o'clock I went to town for tobacco, leaving the child asleep and resting well," he continued. "When I returned her mother and Annie Cooper, the maid, were up and the child was awake, complaining."

It was then that the child told her mother she was going to die, complained about the medicine making her sick and begged for a doctor. McCasland testified.

"Annie called the doctor at 8 o'clock next morning and said he would be there in an hour. When the hour had passed, Dorothy said: 'The hour has passed and the doctor hasn't come.'"

McCasland listed the names of several persons present when the child died and said Dr. Alvin Waller told him:

"If she ever calls me again I'm going to leave town."

The family lived in the town of Commerce, a short distance from Greenville. McCasland, and the two men Mrs. Patterson married after divorcing him, all were sent to prison for violating the liquor laws. She herself was under indictment at oen time on a liquor charge but repeal of the state prohibition law resulted in the case being dismissed.

"Haven't Dug Her Up Yet."

Dorothy was buried Feb. 18 in Pleasant Grove cemetery and McCasland returned to his father's home that night, he said. The next day he went to the home in Commerce, spending several days.

"Each day she (Mrs. Patterson) asked me to go to the cemetery with her." McCasland continued. "She would walk up to the grave and say: 'Well, they haven't dug her up yet.' Each day she would move a clod on the grave.

"She would ask me if I thought she would collect the insurance. She said she was broke."

McCasland testified after Walter Thurman of Commerce, member of he present grand jury, and Deputy Sheriff V. L. Delaney were called as state witnesses.

They testified concerning the exhumation of Dorothy's body and the delivery of the viscera and cavityf luid to Dr. Landon C. Moore of Dallas, chemist.

Dr. Moore reported finding poison in the bodies of Dorothy and a sister, Billie Fae McCasland, 11, after they were exhumed last month.

In 1902 in the same court room he set up a chemical apparatus, poisoned a frog and explained the stages of his analysis to a jury trying a man for poisoning his wife. The defendant was assessed the death penalty.

Virtually all of the state's testimony against the 34-year-old Commerce widow, who pleaded innocence, had centered on the poison angle, the only departure being mention of an insurance policy on the child's life.

C. W. Ambrose, Greenville insurance agent, showed photostatic copies of two insurance policies amounting to $551 on the child's life and of a draft for that amount. The agent said that when he urged Mrs. Patterson to take out more insurance, she answered that "I can't afford it."

The state attempted to show Mrs. Patterson bought poison shortly before the child died early this year and that there had been speculation about the death of the children before officers opened an investigation last month.

Says Mother Bought Poison

Fane Larner, Commerce pharmacist, showed records indicating Mrs. Patterson bought rat poison Jan. 3 and another poison the next day. Larner said she told him she wanted to kill rats.

Mrs. E. E. Lemons of Commerce said she talked by telephone with Mrs. Patterson about poison about 15 minutes before Dorothy died. The witness said she asked Mrs. Patterson whether she had put out rat poison, adding that she told the mother that the doctor didn't know what was wrong with the child and that Dorothy may have taken poison.

Mrs. Lemons testified that Mrs. Patterson told her there was no rat poison on the place.

The witness said that after the child died she overheard Dr. T. L. Waller, who treated the McCasland children, say "there's something strange. Two little girls I have doctored have died."

Cause of the children's deaths had been attributed to influenza but the physician testified at the trial that he could not say definitely what was wrong with them.

NEGRO CHARGED IN ATTEMPTED ASSAULT LYNCHED LAST NIGHT

LINT SHAW, ONCE SAVED BY PLEAS OF AGED JUDGE, SHOT TO DEATH IN GEORGIA

ROYSTON, Ga., April 28. —(AP)—Lint Shaw, negro farmer once saved from lynching through the pleas of an aged judge, was shot to death by a mob of forty men, eight hours before he was to go to trial on a charge of attempted criminal assault.

His body was found at dawn today, tied to a pine tree in a creek bottom near Colbert, Ga., his home.

Pierced by shotgun, pistol and rifle bullets, he died at the scene where two white girls reported he attempted to attack them after their motor car broke down on April 10.

Two bullet wounds the negro received after stabbing two officers in resisting arrest had not yet healed.

The mob, climaxing a series of demonsrtations against the 45-year-old negro which once required the intervention of national guardsmen, broke into Royston's one-story jail about midnight, cornered Night Chief of Police W. A. Dickerson and smashed a lock on the prisoner's cell.

'I couldn't see exactly what happened," Dickerson said. "They just told me they wanted the negro. He didn't say a word when they dragged him out."

Plowlines, cotton ropes used for guiding work animals in the fields, were cut up to tie the negro to the tree.

The jail here was the third in which Shaw had been held since he was identified by the girls as the man who pursued them with a knife and threw one into a valley. The assailant was freightened away by their screams.

First he was taken to jail at Danielsville, Ga. Enroute he stabbed the officers and was shot twice in return.

A mob of 100 men formed there and battered some bricks from the jail in an attempt to reach him.

Superior Judge Berry T. Moseley, 74, left a sickbed to warn the throng against a lynching and deterred the leaders until a national guard unit rushed to that city from tornado emergency duty at Gainesville, Ga., took the negro in custody.

"Stop violating the law by breaking into jail," warned the judge.

From Danielsville Shaw was taken to Atlanta, both to save him from further mob outbreaks and to give him medical attention. He was returned to Danielsville last night to await trial before Judge Moseley, but a threatening crowd caused Sheriff Henley to move him to this city.

Inflamed citizens learned of the transfer and followed.

Several hours after the lynching Shaw still was bound to the tree as throngs assembled on the nearby highway.

Sheriff T. L. Henley left his home at Danielsville to seek a trace of the lynching party.

Dickerson said all of the men were strangers to him.

Officials Urge Confining Pets For Observation

Positive evidence of rabies was found in the brain of the dog killed Saturday afternoon in the western residential section of the city after it had bitten a number of other animals according to information received late Monday from the state health department at Austin.

Local officials were unable to determine Tuesday whether or not any persons had been bitten by the animal in its widespread raids in the western part of the city, and owners of all pet animals were advised to keep their pets confined and under close observation for several days, even if they had been vaccinated.

City officials continued their efforts to rid the city completely of stray animals of all kinds in an attempt to prevent possible spread of the incurable disease. They also communicated with the state health department concerning further measures that might be adopted to safeguard the health of the community.

PROSECUTION SEEKS PRESENT EVIDENCE ON ANOTHER DEATH

MAID IN PATTERSON HOME WAS MAIN WITNESS ON POISON TRIAL THURSDAY

GREENVILLE, April 29.—(AP)—In prosecuting Mrs. Velma Patterson today for allegedly poisoning her 12-year-old daughter, Dorothy, the State today demanded the right to introduce evidence relative to the death of the girl's sister, Billie Fae, 11.

The jury was removed from the courtroom while attorneys debated admissibility of the evidence in Billie Fae's case.

Mrs. Patterson, on trial for the death of Dorothy McCasland, also is under indictment for murder in the death of Billie Fae, who died 40 days before Dorothy succumbed.

Judge Charles Berry indicated he would rule on the issue after defense attorneys conclude their arguments this afternoon. They were fighting the introduction of any evidence other than that pertaining to the Dorothy McCasland case.

The state contended the manner of the children's deaths were "so similar that the jury in passing intelligently on the case on trial" should have the evidence about Billie Fae' death.

Just before the question of admissibility of this evidence was raised, Mary Kelly of Commerce testified to having met Mrs. Patterson at various dances. She said the defendant led a "gay life."

Mary Kelly said she had been indicted once on a liquor charge but had never been tried. Mrs. Patterson likewise once faced a liquor indictment but it was never prosecuted because the state prohibition law was repealed.

GREENVILLE, April 29.—(AP)—The housemaid who watched 12-year old Dorothy McCasland die in agony, allegedly from poison, testified today that immediately after the child passed away her (Dorothy's) mother, Mrs. Velma Patterson ordered her to "keep your little mouth shut about me buying that poison."

The maid, Annie Cooper, had just before told of Mrs. Patterson being "deeply in love" with Jimmy Wallace, a Lone Oak cattleman, and saying she "would marry him if it wasn't for the children."

The witness told of the 35-year-old brunette widow, married three times, being intimate with Wallace from Jan. 7 until Feb. 10, when little Dorothy became ill. Mrs. Patterson's other daughter, Billie Fae, 11, had died a short time before Dorothy was stricken.

Miss Cooper testified to hearing a conversation between Mrs. E. E. Lemons, beauty shop operator at Commerce, and Mrs. Patterson, in which Mrs. Leamons asked the woman if she had "put out rat poison."

Mrs. Patterson was quoted as replying:

"No, why?"

Mrs. Lemons then said, according to the maid: "Well, I thought maybe you had and Dorothy got hold of it.

"No, there's never been rat poison here," the maid said Mrs. Patterson replied.

Warned After Death Child

A few minutes after Dorothy died, Miss Cooper testified, Mrs. Patterson called her into the living room of her Commerce home and told her:

"You keep your little mouth shut about me buying that poison."

Miss Cooper had related how Mrs. Patterson had had her ex-husband, W. W. (Dester) McCasland, father of Billie Fae and Dorothy, go to town and buy poison before Dorothy became ill. McCasland at the time was visiting his former wife.

Several days before the child's death Miss Cooper said she overheard Mrs. Patterson tell an automobile dealer she would be able to get her wrecked car out of the garage within a few days.

"I'm down, but will have money soon," the defendant was quoted as telling the dealer.

Miss Cooper also told of a trip she made to a drug store with Mrs. Patterson. She said Mrs. Patterson ordered a poison, explaining to the clerk she "wanted to kill rats—they're about to take the place."

Bought Rat Poison

The druggist did not have the poison but recommended a common rat poison which Mrs. Patterson purchased, Miss Cooper testified.

The maid said Mrs. Patterson told her then: "That's not what I want."

Miss Cooper added that she had never seen a rat about the Patterson home.

At 3 o'clock the morning of Feb. 17, Miss Cooper said Dorothy lay groaning in agony and calling for a doctor, "but we didn't do anything but sit with her until 8 o'clock, when I called a doctor.

"I told Dorothy the doctor would be there in an hour and she watched the clock and moaned," Miss Cooper said.

"'Oh, why doesn't he come'," the child said.

GREENVILLE, April 29.—(AP)—A possible love motive behind the alleged poisoning of Mrs. Velma Patterson's little daughter, Dorothy, was hinted today in the testimony of a key witness at the mother's murder trial.

Annie Cooper, attractive young maid in the Patterson home at Commerce during the fatal illness of the 12-year old child, related how Mrs. Patterson, thrice-married widow, told her many times she was "deeply in love" with Jimmy Wallace, a cattleman living at the nearby town of Lone Oak.

The maid testified Wallace began coming to the Patterson home Jan. 7, 1936 and visited the woman intermittently until Feb. 10. The witness said Mrs. Patterson frequently drove the ten miles to Lone Oak to bring Wallace to her home. She said Wallace frequently stayed all day and late into the night.

Annie Cooper quoted Mrs. Patterson as saying that on numerous occasions, while voicing her love for Wallace, that she "would marry him if it wasn't for the children."

Died After Brief Illness.

It was in January that Billie Fae McCasland, 11, Mrs. Patterson's youngest daughter, sickened and died in a brief period. The death certificate attributed her death to intestinal influenza but the state claims poison killed her. Then, on Feb. 10 Dorothy became ill and a week later passed away under similar circumstances.

The maid corroborated testimony given yesterday by W. W. (Dester) McCasland, divorced husband of Mrs. Patterson and father of Billie Fae and Dorothy. When Dorothy became ill, McCasland said, he went to the Patterson home and helped attend her.

The Cooper girl said she went to work for the brunette defendant last October and remained until Feb. 18—when Dorothy was buried.

McCasland, the first of Mrs. McCasland's three husbands, had told of Dorothy, as she lay dying begging not to be given any more of her mother's "rest medicine."

Mother Gave Medicine.

The maid, describing the sickness of Dorothy, told how Mrs. Patterson forbade her to administer medicine.

"Mrs. Patterson gave me strict orders that she would give all the medicine herself," Miss Cooper tsetified.

The witness then went on to tell how, on the day before Dorothy died, she "appeared to be resting fine." That was Sunday, Feb. 16.

"At 1 a. m. Monday, when everyone else was in bed, McCasland rose and went to town to buy some tobacco," the maid said. "Then Mrs. Patterson got up and told Dorothy to take a dose of powder.

"The child vomited the first dose and her mother gave her another one.

"When McCasland came back, he asked Dorothy if she wouldn't take some rest medicine.

"Dorothy said: 'What kind are you going to give me, daddy?"

"McCasland said: 'I'm going to give you a rest powder.'

"Then Dorothy told him: 'Just so you don't give me the kind mother gave me—it makes me so sick'."

New Man Interest.

In describing how Mrs. Patterson told of wanting to marry Wallace, the maid quoted the woman as saying the cattleman was "a nice looking fellow, well raised and from a nice family."

Miss Cooper said she saw Wallace and Mrs. Patterson together many times.

The maid, in substantiating McCasland's testimony, confirmed that Mrs. Patterson had sent her ex-husband to town Jan. 7 to buy groceries, chicken feed and poison. Miss Cooper said Mrs. Paterson told McCasland to charge the items.

Miss Cooper, young divorcee who had her original name restored about five years ago by court action, has been confined voluntarily in the Hunt County jail since March 11.

McCasland, another material witness, also has been in jail.

The state yesterday offered expert testimony to show that poison was found in Dorothy's body.

Testimony of Dr. Landon C.....

GREENVILLE, April 29.—(AP)—The state, with expert testimony in the record that poison was found in the body of Mrs. Velma Patterson's daughter, pressed its case against the 34-year old widow at her murder trial today.

Testimony of Dr. Landon C. Moore, Dallas chemist, that he found poison in the body of the girl, Dorothy McCasland, 12, when it was exhumed last month and statements of the child's father were high spots in yesterday's session.

District Attorney Henry Pharr indicated testimony of Anne Cooper, maid in the Patterson home during Dorothy's lifetime and illness, likely would climax the state's case against the thrice-married woman.

Dr. Moore, on the stand two hours explaining his chemical analysis of the child's viscera, said the body contained more than enough poison to be fatal. He added that it was possible to administer the poison in small doses over a period of several days before causing death.

Child's Father Witness

The child's father and divorced husband of the defendant, W. W. (Dester) McCasland told the jury he bought at Mrs. Patterson's request the kind of poison the chemist said he found in his examination of the child's body.

McCasland said that a few weeks later the child, as she lay dying, begged: "Don't ever give me another dose of rest medicine like mother gave me."

Walter Thurman, member of the grand jury that indicted Mrs. Patterson, identified a carton containing eight ounces of poison as having been taken from Mrs. Patterson's home.

Mrs. Patterson also faces an indictment charging that she killed another daughter, Billie Fae McCasland, 11, who died about a month before Dorothy became ill. Dr. Moore also reported he found poison in her body.

BANK OF FRANCE, FEARFUL OF LEFTIST VICTORY SUNDAY, HAS PLANNED ITS REORGANIZATION

By ROBERT PARKER,
Associated Press Foreign Staff

PARIS, April 28.—(AP)—The Bank of France, expecting a new left government to emerge from the parliamentary elections with a plan to "reform" it, was reported by a high financial source today to have drafted already its own reorganization plan.

Financiers said that although the bank did not expect a demand for nationalization of the institution, it awaited a campaign to give greater representation on the board of regents to minor shareholders and to the government.

If a leftist government should start such "agitation" after the run-off elections next Sunday for a new chamber of deputies, financiers said, the Bank of France would propose:

1. That every share be given one vote, in place of the present rule restricting the right of vote in "general assemblys" to the 200 biggest shareholders.

2. That two or three high treasury officials, and possibly other government chiefs, be added to the banks' board of regents.

Left wing politicians have contended that the "real masters of France" are 12 elderly regents of the Bank of France.

Two barons, a marquis and nine plain citizens were criticized in fiery election speeches, extremists declaring these men were the "power behind the republic" because they control the balance of power in the bank's 18-man directorate.

Although the private institution issues France's banknotes, holds 65,000,000,000 francs in gold and has assets of 95,500,000,000 francs, many of the elderly millionaires are hardly known to their fellow citizens.

PATTERSON

this year and the state claims poison administered by the mother was responsible.

Fred Patterson said he visited his sister-in-law's home several times from Jan. 4 to 17 and saw Wallace there "frequently; often before they ate breakfast."

Bill Patterson, the woman's third husband, died the latter part of last year. Previously she had married and divorced W. W. McCasland, the father of Dorothy and Billie Fae, and Bill Kelly.

McCasland told today how Billie Fae, who died last Jan. 7, struggled for breath and, in convulsions, begged him to take her where she could get fresh air. He said she died in his arms while he was holding her in his arms, after carrying her to a back porch.

"She died before I could get her back to the bedroom," he testified.

"I went to Mrs. Patterson's Sunday, Jan. 5, to see the children and Billie Fae was sick. She asked me never to leave her. She was cramping, begging for water and asking for a doctor.

"The next day I left to sell a load of wood and Mrs. Patterson asked me to stop in town and bring her groceries and a poison to kill rats. I returned and never stopped the motor truck, left the articles and went on.

"The truck bogged down and I had to turn back. When I returned to the Pattersons, Billie Fae was terribly sick and died three hours later."

Over defense protests, Judge Berry yesterday permitted the admission of tstimony concerning Billie Fae's death. Mrs. Patterson is on trial for the death of Dorothy, but also is under indictment for murder, in the death of Billie Fae, also allegedly a poison victim.

The defense attempted to get McCasland to admit he was drunk the day before Dorothy died and the day she was buried, but he denied being intoxicated. He also denied giving to Annie Cooper, maid in the Patterson home then, part of a bottle of whisky.

Mrs. W. M. Mattingly of Commerce, a nurse, testified she attended Dorothy Friday night, Feb. 14, before the child died the following Monday.

"I saw no medicine on the place but Mrs. Patterson told me she had given medicine and would continued to do so," Mrs. Mattingly said.

Testifies to Exhumation Order

The practical nurse said she left the next morning (Feb. 15) and didn't return until the child died; then to "sit up with the corpse."

Justice of the Peace J. A. Wyatt of Hopkins county testified concerning entering an order in his inquest book for exhumation of the body of Billie Fae March 16.

The last witness before the state rested was Mrs. Fred Patterson, who testified:

"Velma told me she was crazy about Jimmy Wallace and they were going to get married if they could.

Defense Attorney Harris didn't reveal which witnesses he would call first. It was considered likely Mrs. Patterson would testify near the end of the defense case.

Through it all Mrs. Patterson sat quietly, her face as expressionless as it had been all through presentation of the state's case, except when her former maid, Annie Cooper, had created a sensation by revealing the defendant was in love with Jimmie Wallace, a cattleman, and allegedly said she "would marry him if it wasn't for the children."

Then, as her purported love affair was unfolded in the words of the maid, Mrs. Patterson leaned forward, listening intently to every word.

State Attorneys to Complete Testimony

GREENVILLE, April 30.—(AP)—State attorneys moved today to complete what developed into a double-barrel case against Mrs. Velma Patterson, thrice-wed widow accused of poisoning her daughters, Dorothy and Billie Fae McCasland.

District Attorney Henry Pharr, saying testimony concerning Billie Fae's death was finished, announced state plans to rest by noon. That testimony was ruled admissable after Pharr, with the jury excluded from the room, argued the children died under similar circumstances and the the evidence was pertinent to a fair picture of the cause of Dorothy's death.

The 34-year-old brunette was called to trial on charges of slaying Dorothy, 12, although she also was indicted in connection with the death of Billie Fae, 11.

Annie Cooper, maid in the Patterson home at the time the children died about a month apart early this year, who had testified Mrs. Patterson was in love with a cattleman and wanted to marry him "if it wasn't for the children," was recalled for questioning concerning Billie Fae's death.

She said that Mrs. Patterson bought a can of rat poison Jan. 3 and that Billie Fae became ill the next day. The witness declared Billie Fae's illness was similar to that of Dorothy 40 days later. The witness said the child begged for a physician but that one was not called until the day after she became ill.

FIVE DEAD, THREE SERIOUSLY INJURED IN HIGHWAY CRASH

TWO TRUCKS AND AUTOMOBILE FIGURED IN LOUISIANA ACCIDENT

LUTCHER, La., April 29.—(AP)—Five persons were dead and three others were in a hospital today seriously injured from an accident last night on the New Orleans-Baton Rouge highway four miles north of Lutcher in which two trucks and an automobile crashed and burned.

Althought here were no witnesses to the crash outside of those in the machines involved, Dr. G. L. Daudet, coroner of St. James parish who investigated the wreck today, expressed the opinion that the trucks hit head-on the automobile crashed into them and the mass of wreckage burst into flames trapping some of the injured and burning them to death.

The dead:

Vernon Hebert, 25, New Orleans; Virgis Hebert, 23, his sister; Leon Worrell, Zachary, La.; Byrd L. Rhea, 50, attached to the United States engineer's office at Baton Rouge, burned to death; and Fenton Cline, 23, also attached to the engineer's office, burned to death.

The injured were:

W. F. Cobb, 60, of Zachary, critically hurt; Anna Lee Hebert, 20, New Orleans, undetermined condition and Earl Ray McClure, 20, of Zachary, serious condition.

The Heberts were returning to New Orleans from attending the funeral of their father, Nicholas Hebert, at Paintcourtville, La., when the accident happened.

DEAL DECLARED FOR DELIVERY SUPPORT OF TOWNSENDITES

LOS ANGELES, April 30.—(AP)—Pierre Tomlinson, a witness in the Townsend plan hearing, told of a $12,000 "deal" between heads of the Townsend organization and Gov. Frank Merriam's representatives through which, he said, the voting strength of the group was to have been thrown on the side of Merriam in the 1934 gubernatorial race.

Tomlinson testified before a congressional sub-committee investigating the Townsend plan.

He said the deal was made by Dr. Townsend and R. E. Clements, former secretary-treasurer of the organization, with the governor's election representatives.

But the money, he said, was never paid.

"You mean he didn't get the dough," asked Joseph Gavagan (D-NY) one of the committeemen.

"No, he delivered the goods before they were paid for," Tomlinson replied.

The witness said Dr. Townsend caused a full-page picture of Merriam to appear in the Townsend Weekly, along with statements urging the support of Merriam, who subsequently was elected governor of California.

Tomlinson also produced a letter to A. R. White, of Alhambra, dated July 14, 1934, and signed by Dr. Townsend which expressed Townsend's disfavor of Upton Sinclair, Epic candidate, in the race for the governorship.

OFFICER'S SLAYER AND JEWEL ROBBER MAKES STATEMENT

CHICAGO, April 30.—(AP)—A 24-year old Indiana gunman, who police aspired to be a "second John Dillinger" first made then retracted today a confession that he had killed Sgt. Richard Rivers in a pistol battle in Indianapolis last Monday, Police Capt. John Stege announced.

The gunman, he said, was Alfred Brady, known also as Barton, Bartun, Gentry and by other aliases, who was seized last night in a north side hotel. Two other men and two women also were arrested and a third woman was taken into custody today.

Capt. Stege said he believed the arrest of Brady broke up a gang which had $100,000 in jewelry store and other holdups on its record. Police were seeking three men, named by Brady as his companions in the actual holdups.

Rivers was killed as he and two other policemen sought to arrest several men who had taken a wounded companion to a physician's office.

Brady, Capt. Stege said, first admitted that he fired the shots which killed Rivers, but later declared that he had fired no shots at all and had escaped while his three partners were engaging the policemen in a pistol battle.

The wounded man, Stege said Brady told him, was Elmer Martin, or Marvin, who was hurt in the escape of the four men after robbing a jewelry store at Lima, Ohio, the same day.

Martin, Stege said he was told, was hiding in Indianapolis. The other two gunmen, Brady said, were somewhere in Chicago with part of the jewelry store loot. He named them as a "Jimmy Williams" and a "Lee Jackson."

Attorney General McCraw Touchous Over Panhandling

DALLAS, April 30.—(AP)—Mayors of America's largest cities were asked in letters mailed today by Attorney General William McCraw from headquarters of the Texas Centennial Exposition to aid in a campaign to stop "the insidious use in your city of the terms 'Panhandle' and 'panhandling' for beggars and the act of begging.

"Texans do not use these terms," said McCraw's letter, "and they are indignant that other people do, since the Panhandle is the name of a large section of the Lone Star State. This use of the words seems particularly unfortunate at this time, when Texas is preparing to celebrate its one hundredth birthday.

"The people of the Texas panhandle decidedly are not beggars. On the contrary, the section is one of the richest wheat growing areas in the United States, producing wheat of a higher protein content than other areas, and is also rich in its production of oil and cattle."

Financial History Pension Plan Sought

LOS ANGELES, April 30.—(AP)—A congressional sub-committee, following a day's recess, focused a public inquiry today on the methods which Townsend old age pension leaders employed to gain monetary support from thousands of followers.

"We're going to get a little of the history of the Townsend financing as practiced in southern California," said James R. Sullivan, committee counsel.

"We have more witnesses and enough evidence to cause a lot of old people who have contributed to this scheme to do a lot of wondering."

One witness, committee members said, would tell of the origin of the Townsend movement, and of the motives and aims of its early organizers.

A mysterious element was introduced into the investigation last night through the visit of George Highley, leader of "rebel" Townsendites in Los Angeles, to headquarters of the subcommittee.

Sullivan said, "I just sent for him, that's all," and declined to discuss his purpose.

ALL WHITE JURIES HELD NO VIOLATION OF CONSTITUTION

FAILURE TO DRAW NEGROES BASIS OF APPEAL JACKSON COUNTY MAN

AUSTIN, April 29.—(AP)—The court of criminal appeals today ruled that failure to draw negroes on grand and petit juries did not violate state and federal constitutions and statutes in absence of testimony showing discrimination.

The decision was in the case of Frank Brown, convicted in Jackson county of driving an automobile while intoxicated. Brown claimed race prejudice in selection of the grand jury by the jury commissioners.

The court held evidence showing no negroes had been selected for jury duty for "some time" was insufficient to overcome the legal presumption that the commissioners observed the statutes and constitution.

The term "sometime," the court observed, might mean six months or six years, holding that if evidence was presented to show no negro was drawn for service in 25 or 50 years the case probably would come under a decision of the United States supreme court in an appeal from Alabama.

Brown's conviction, however, was reversed and remanded because of refusal of the trial court to grant a continuance on Brown's petition he was unable to locate an important witness.

The court overruled a motion for rehearing filed by Donald E. Covin, sentenced to death from Gregg county in the slaying of Mrs. Emma Sage, Gladewater waitress, refusing to disturb a former decision holding the question of Covin's insanity was properly ruled upon by a jury.

Frank Wright, charged with murder in Harris county in the death of Harry H. Poole, was ordered released in $7,500 bond. Poole died from stab wounds inflicted during an altercation with Wright in front of a fire station.

The court affirmed the murder convictions of Maximo Castanado, Robert Camp and Jessie Brooks.

Castanado was sentenced to 50 years in Goliad county in the slaying of Jesus Koehler; Camp was convicted in Kinney county of the murder of his wife, Julia, and sentenced to 99 years; and Brooks was sentenced to 99 years in the slaying of Erma Lee Wilkerson, in Falls county.

SCHACHT REMOVED AS FINANCIAL DIRECTOR BY HITLER TUESDAY

GENERAL GOERING MADE FOREIGN EXCHANGE AND RAW MATERIALS DICTATOR

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER
(Copyright, 1936, By Associated Press.)

BERLIN, April 28.—(AP)—Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, heretofore chief teller of Germany's economic structure, became the Reich's No. 2 man in commerce, industry and ecnomics today, and the dynamic Gen. Hermann Wilhemn Goering superseded him as far as management of foreign exchange and raw materials was concerned.

An official communique, announcing the appointment of the air minister and premier of Prussia by Adolf Hitler last night as supreme dictator over all foreign exchange and raw material questions, asserted:

"Inasmuch as in handling of questions concerning raw materials and foreign exchange, numerous government and party offices must co-operate, der fuehrer and reichschancellor has delegated to the Prussian prime minister examination and execution of all necessary measures.

"Prime Minister Goering is authorized in this connection to hear and to give instructions to all government and party offices. He is authorized to ask for the support of the respective reich ministers, and in case of necessity, he may delegate them to represent him."

As General Goering's appintment became known today, the question anxiously raised in business circles was:

"Is Schacht merely stooping to conquer, or is this the first step toward his fading out of the picture, just as Reichsbishop Ludwig Mueller faded out of the protestant picture when Hans Kerrl superseded him as minister for eccelesiastical affairs?"

This correspondent dsicussed the situation with bankers, Nazi party officials, representatives of the dye trust and the potash syndicate and an aristocrat with vast agricultural holdings.

With one accord, they agreed that Schacht's elimination from public life would be a signal for foreign countries to regard Germany's economic structure as unstable.

All agreed further that Schacht, as Germany's financial and economic expert, had incurred the bitter enmity of the Nazi party.

In this respect, they said Schacht was not without personal fault, for instead of adapting himself to the language and ideology of Nazism, he heaped sarcasm upon such Nazi ideas as he considered impracticable.

Rails were carried on the flat car for repairing the tracks and one of the rails became loose struck a pole alongside the track bounded back and struck Bell.

the number would be materially larger during the remainder of the year.

Local dealers are anticipating extensive benefits from the nationwide building campaign, and more particularly from the clinic recently held in Corsicana by the Federal Housing Administration and the campaign that is supposed to follow this meeting. More than sixty inquiries were handled personally by the federal representatives on Tuesday and several others were received by mail and will reach the dealers shortly.

Financing Available.

Ample financing is available in Corsicana for all types and sizes of legitimate building needs according to the unanimous opinion of parties interested in the industry. A large amount of private capital is available through individuals and two strong banks, as well as the Corsicana Federal building and Loan association, and the facilities of the Federal Housing administration through local institutions.

Close observers have reported a distinctly more optimistic sentiment on the part of property owners, enhanced greatly by the recent rain, and requests for estimates and information have increased during the past few days.

A mapority of the work done in recent months has been through some form of financing and the amount of strictly cash business was reported to be only a small per centage. Quality materials are also being sought with greater regularity.

Several of the yards indicated that the demand for paints, varnishes and wallpaper has indicated a strong revival of civic pride with much redecoration now under way or already completed recently.

ITALIANS

defended with bitter forces by the Ethiopians of Ras Nasibu, were taken by assault by the troops of Gen. Rodolfo Graziani. x x x

"Sasa Baneh and Bullaleh were occupied yesterday afternoon.

"On the northern front, the march of our columns toward Addis Ababa continued. x x x "

Italian press dispatches said the advancing Italian column in Ethiopia had taken Ancober, the important city on the Southern highway to Addis Ababa and once the capital of Shoa.

Rome newspapers carried headlines reading: "Our troops about to reach Addis Ababa" and "our troops near Addis Ababa."

May Enter Capital Friday.

The entrance of Italian troops into the Ethiopian capital it was suggested, probably will not be announced before tomorrow or the day after. Some authorities thought it possible, however, that the announcement might be made tomorrow to coincide with the communist red day and thereby point a contrast with Fascism's newest achievement.

The occupation of Ancober, which is 85 miles from Addis Ababa, gives the Italian control of one of the main caravan routes to Harar and partly cuts off Ethiopia's second city from the capital.

An Italian press ministry denial that a special envoy had been sent to London to negotiate an Ethiopian settlement failed to shake off a growing belief in informed circles that Italy and Britain were seeking a basis for an African agreement.

The newspaper Popolo di Roma, which follows closely the trend of the government's diplomacy, published a conciliatory front-page editorial today in comment on a recent interview given by George Bernard Shaw, the noted British author.

Rumors Addis Ababa Entered.

ROME, April 30.—(AP)—An unconfirmed press dispatch said Marshal Pietro Badoglio's Italian troops entered Addis Ababa at 10 a. m. today.

Other reports said the advance guard of the fascist troops were at the city limits. Previous dispatches had reported the motorized column of 30,000 men within artillery shot of the Ethiopian capital.

Italian newspapers announced in large headlines that the Blackshirt soldiers were about to occupy Addis Ababa.

RIFLEMAN KILLED IN FEUD OUTBREAK AUSTIN THURSDAY

BROTHERS-IN-LAW SETTLE DIFFERENCES ON HIGHWAY WITH GUNS

AUSTIN, April 30.—(AP)—Ernest Thurman, 32, Hill county rifleman, was killed, and Albert Brust, 55, seriously wounded, in an affray near Austin today.

Deputy Sheriff H. W. (Rip) Collins said the shooting climaxed a feud of several years standing between the men, who were brothers-in-law.

The men quarreled at a party last night, according to Collins, and Brust, who was unarmed, hid under a truck, later going home. Thurman had a rifle.

About daybreak, Collins said, the brothers-in-law met on a highway, each armed with rifles. Thurman died instantly from a bullet wound in his neck. Brust was shot in the hip.

An automobile containing some women with whom Thurman had ridden to the scene was backed away by the driver and no others were injured.

Thurman in recent years had been indicted on a number of charges. One charged assault to murder A. L. Brust, March 29, 1927. Another alleged liquor selling, and a third assault with intent to murder Roy Felps, Aug. 22, 1931.

On April 14, officers raided a still site "up in the hills" and captured Thurman, charging him and his wife with owning and operating an unregistered distillery.

Laxative combination folks know is trustworthy

The confidence thousands of parents have in good, old reliable, powdered Thedford's Black-Draught has prompted them to get the new Syrup of Black-Draught for their children. The grown folks stick to the powdered Black-Draught; the youngsters probably will prefer it when they outgrow their childish love of sweets. . . Mrs. C. W. Adams, of Murray, Ky., writes: "I have used Thedford's Black-Draught (powder) about thirteen years, taking it for biliousness. Black-Draught acts well and I am always pleased with the results. I wanted a good, reliable laxative for my children. I have found Syrup of Black-Draught to be just that."

STATION BOMBING RECOUNTED GILMER TRIAL FOR MURDER

DEFENSE PRESENTS SERIES WITNESSES FOR JIM BRYANT THURSDAY

GILMER, April 30.—(AP)—Charlie Reed, who lived in the home of Jim Bryant, told a jury today he saw dynamite thrown from a car occupied by H. C. and Ira Ferguson into Bryant's filling station on the Tyler-Henderson road two years ago.

The testimony was presented by the defense in Bryant's trial here for murder in connection with the shotgun deaths of H. C. Ferguson, who with his brother, was slain in April 1934.

Trouble between Bryant and the Fergusons was alleged to have started with a gasoline price war in the area in which they operated rival filling stations.

Judge Walter Russell ruled inadmissable testimony of Lawrence Jarman of Lindale that he sold two sticks of dynamite to H. C. Ferguson before the bombing.

W. T. Wolverton testified he overheard a threat made by Jim Hawkins, brother-in-law of the Fergusons, that they were not through with Bryant, and Clyde Chambless, who admitted having served several jail terms, said one of the brothers offered him $50 to place dynamite in the Bryant station.

Earl Price, former sheriff of Smith county, said he arrested H. C. Ferguson after Bryant's station was bombed. State's attorneys showed the cases were dismissed for want of evidence.

Yesterday, state's attorneys attempted to prove Bryant's guilt by a strong net of circumstantial evidence.

BODY OF KING FUAD ENTOMBED AS FAROUK MEETS WITH EDWARD

CAIRO, Egypt, April 30.—(AP)—King Fuad I, Egypt's first constitutional monarch, was entombed in the royal Mosque at Airifaey today after being borne from Abdin palace, on a gun carriage draped with the national flag through the heart of his capital.

Two squadrons of Egyptian army planes circled over the procession, in which no women participated, the roar of the motors mingling with the wailing cries:

"The king is dead, long live the king."

King Fuad went to his last resting place, unaccompanied by the new king, his son, the 16-year old Farouk.

The former Crown Prince, who was proclaimed king after his father's death Tuesday, went to Buckingham Palace in London, while the funeral profession was passing through Cairo, and was closeted with King Edward for half an hour in the English monarch's private apartment.

King Farouk was expected to leave London this afternoon for Cairo, his studies in England cut short by his accession to the Egyptian throne. He will travel by boat and train accompanied on the sea trips by British detectives.

TURKS WILL FORTIFY

Military preparedness being the order of the day, Turkey wants to fortify her Dardanelles, and will probably be granted permission by the treaty powers that have forbidden it since the war. Especially by Great Britain, which needs a good friend in that quarter.

It seems a pity to set up forts and big guns along that famous strait, the ancient Hellespont famous in Greek story, near the hill where Troy stood for ages as a trading post, and where Greeks camped during the Trojan War. Where also a bloody campaign was fought during the World War, for the control of Constantinople and the Black Sea, a campaign virtually won by Turkish courage against the British.

Russia, Rumania and Bulgaria, for whom the Dardanelles and Bosporus are an outlet into the Mediterranean, will not like to see them fortified. They will argue that such essential water routes should be kept unmilitarized and open to all nations, in peace or war, as the Suez Canal is supposed to be. But Turkey, whose friendship they too desire, is expected to have her way. And then sooner or later, very likely, a big war will be fought over it.

That is, unless the world can rise to making all such vital routes permanently open to all nations on equal terms, as they should be, including the Strait of Gibraltar and our Panama Canal. But such a Utopian policy could not be adopted until the world was considerably more settled and sane than it is now.

EXPEDITIOUS COURTS.

We shall never understand the English people. Look at the condition their courts are in today. They have become so businesslike that nobody can keep up with them. In one of the higher courts recently an attorney had to ask for postponement of his case because, seeing that there were 59 cases ahead of his own, he had thought it safe to let an important witness go to Belgium for 10 days. In less than that time the cases were all cleaned up and the court was insisting that he come to trial. The judges were much put out about it, too. They wanted to keep going.

In another sitting reported recently in London, a judge disposed of his business in 15 minutes and couldn't find anything else to do. In still another, three judges out of 12 were out of work, and two others exhausted the pending cases, long before the day was over.

All this seems very strange if you recall the old Star Chamber days, when British courts used to get so far behind that the litigants usually died before their suits came to trial.

Why the great contrast now with our American courts, which stem from the British system? The people over there seem less given to "lawing" than we are. The lawyers are less given to oratory, petty objections, appeals and miscellaneous time-wasting processes. The judges are more businesslike, keeping the lawyers under control, going promptly to the heart of a case, moving right along and denying postponements and retrials sought for trivial reasons.

There's only one fellow who knows all about public affairs, and that's good old Vox Populi.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE REVISED

(With apologies to the beloved Riley)

Little Orphant Annie's come to our house to stay
Coz the revenue department's took her money all away.
For all the life insurance which was once her daddy's pride
Was swallowed up in taxes just the minute that he died.
He hoped to leave her plenty, so she wouldn't have a care,
But it took up every dollar to give Uncle Sam his share.
Now it isn't imps and witches that she sits and tells about
But the govern-maunt 'at gits you Ef you Don't Watch Out!

Once her daddy used to tell her he was working for the day
When she might be left an orphant an' he'd have to go away.
An' he never shirked his duty an' he never guzzled beer,
An' sometimes he wouldn't order from his tailor for a year.
He was saving up for Annie, as a father ought to do,
But the more he earned by working, more and more his taxes grew.
An inheritance was something he'd forgotten all about!
An' the govern-munt will git you Ef you Don't Watch Out!

Onct Orphant Annie's daddy had some money laid aside,
But the taxes saved by living were assessed the day he died.
They taxed him for the city and they taxed him for the state.
If they caught him sfaying even then they doubled up his rate.
An' sometimes it make us wonder as we listen to her tale
If it pays to be successful? Aren't we better off to fail?
For with tax collectors trailing everybody round about,
The govern-munt will git you Ef you Don't Watch Out!

OLD SKILL NOT LOST

A newspaper man who has been looking into factory personnel problems concludes that loss of skill by workmen during the depression isn't so serious as has been supposed.

Men long unemployed, he finds, may pick up their old skill anywhere from a couple of days for a simple job to several months for a complicated and difficult job. The average is two to four weeks.

Office workers are usually not very good on machines. Outside workers take more easily to factory jobs.

In continuous production processes, where hand movements are simple and machinery sets the pace, people long out of work fall back into the routine rather easily.

Workers get back the old speed and skill quicker in the same plant where they have worked before than in a new plant.

This is hopeful. All that is needed now is more jobs for more workmen.

JUDGES ASSAILED

There is a shock in the title of a book just published, "Lawless Judges." Its introduction speaks boldly of "the flagrant lawlessness of our judiciary in curtailing, and at times abrogating, the constitutional rights of indivduals and economic groups" in this country.

The authors, Louis P. Goldberg and Eleanore Levenson, may be "radicals," for all we know, but the writer of the introduction is Prof. Morris R. Cohen, a scholar of high repute and an authority on the philosophy of law.

He maintains that many of our constitutional guarantees are mere "blank checks," which judges can fill in as they please, according to their personal views. He says they themselves create "retroactive law" in spite of the Constitution. He deplores the power by which they, in expressing their views from the bench, can often control the acts of legislative bodies, thus making themselves virtually law-makers.

All this is very unsettling. The public will want to hear now from the judges themselves.

Some economists still argue that machinery doesn't throw people out of work. Well, anyhow, when they find themselves out, machinery makes it mighty hard for 'em to get back.

Great Britain is finding it hard to operate an unreasonable world.

Even Ethiopia fleas and smells don't justify the Italian poison gas.

GLANDULAR LYING

When a child deliberately lies, says a specialist on child guidance, the trouble may be with his glands rather than his morals. The thyroid or some other gland may not be functioning right. These glands are a natural system of physical controls. When one of them fails to do its duty, it may throw the physical system out of kelter, and thus make trouble with the mental and emotional system. Lying is often a refuge of weakness, caused by an unnoticed disorder. Get everything running smoothly in the body, and the child who has been subnormal may have the strength and courage to tell the truth.

Of course children's lying, or what is considered lying, is often caused by a vivid imagination. A child may live largely in a world of his own, where things happening merely in his mind may seem real. It isn't a bad thing, if not carried to extremes. Such children may grow up into literary or artistic geniuses, capitalizing their "story-telling." The dreams need not be discouraged, but the child should be helped to see more clearly the line dividing external facts from what merely happens in the mind.

NATURAL GAS FOR CARS.

The idea of using natural gas for internal combustion engines is not new. Many of us remember the London motor busses that operated on gas during the war, to save gasoline. Lately a natural gas company in Minneapolis has been experimenting with it.

Apparently it works all right. An ordinary automobile was used, with two gas tanks carrying the gas under a pressure of 125 pounds, and special governors to reduce the pressure. Only a slight readjustment of the carburetor was necessary. The car is said to run eight or ten miles on 32 cubic feet of gas (measured at normal pressure), costing about half a cent a mile.

The obvious difficulty about gaseous fuel is its bulk. Either very large tanks must be used, or the gas must be condensed to much smaller compass. A small oxygen tank of the usual type, carrying 2,000 pounds pressure, would hold enough gas to run a car 70 miles. At such pressure the gas would be almost liquid. It might be as well to liquefy it altogether.

Why go to this trouble, when there is plenty of gasoline available? For economy, say the experimenters. Also for conservation. Too much gas is now going to waste for lack of a market.

USED WALNUT SHELLS

California walnut growers put engineers and chemists to work some time ago on the problem of discarded nut shells. So far the scientists have found fifteen commercial uses for them.

The most important is their use in manufacturing hard and soft rubber compounds, asphaltum linoleums and roofing paper. They are used also for filler in dynamite, for abrasive mechanic's soaps and in gold and silver buffing rouge. The powdered shell goes into some tooth and face powders and fur cleaners. It is used for polishing various products in revolving drums. Door knobs, ash trays, toilet cases and auto accessories all may be made from the finely-ground walnut shells. An oil used in some paints is extracted from them.

After everything else has been done, and all the by-products made, the remainder is pressed into cakes and sold for livestock feed. Some of it is made into commercial charcoal.

This takes care of the growers' waste shells. There is less and less commercial waste these days as research tackles such problems.

HULL

"suicidal effort at economic self-containment." He said it would spell aggravated "regimentation" of economic life and a permanent "dole."

Hull has been pressing a program to scale down tariffs and other trade barriers by negotiating trade pacts with foreign countries. The trade act provides that the executive branch, without the consent of congress, may lower or raise tariffs in negotiating these agreements. Previously tariffs would be changed only by act of congress.

Hull Defends Course.

Noting that "great business organizations, like yours, have given us invaluable encouragement," Hull said:

"Authough experience has already demonstrated that, under existing circumstances, the negotiations of reciprocal trade agreements represents the only constructive approach, in the field of commerce, to the problem of broad and sound economic recovery, there are some in this country, who, without waiting for the economic emergency to be brought under control, demand the immediate repeal of the act and the abandonment of the trade agreements negotiated under its authority.

"Let us face squarely what that would mean. We would automatically go back to the Smoot-Hawley tariff and face once more the vicious discrimination against our trade which it caused and the virtually suicidal effort at economic self-containment which is represented.

"This futile and fatal course backward would involve a steadily increasing aggravation of regulation and regimentation of our economic life.

Attacks Politicians in General

"Yet some of those who voice loudest their opposition to regimentation in general demand, at the same time, a commercial policy that would inevitably lead to such regimentation, and a permanently increasing dole as well."

Another speaker, Fitzgerald Hall, president of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis Railway, Nashville, Tenn., attacked politicians in general. Arguing that the people have lost much of their suffrage, Hall said:

"Take our two great national parties—democrats and republicans. They are really two closed corporations.

"The entire party machinery, generally speaking, is in control of the federal office-holding aristocracy, aided manfully to be sure, by professional politicians in the several states.

"To all practical purposes our national conventions are aggregations of men and women passing judgment on their own conduct and seeking further means to perpetuate themselves on the public payrolls."

Asked to Attack Tax Plans.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—(AP)—The convention of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States was asked by its resolutions committee today to attack administration tax plans, condemn legislation to fix labor conditions and approve a proposed survey of available jobs.

These and other resolutions were presented for consideration after Secretary Hull, saying there is "rising danger" of a catastrophis world war, attacked what he termed the "supreme folly" of "excessive" trade barriers.

The state department secretary said a revival of world trade through a lowering of such barriers is necessary to halt the virtulent disease" of economic distress, social unrest, dictatorships and war.

Child Health Day Finds 47 States Planning Bigger Welfare Programs

WASHINGTON, April 30.—(AP)—Child Health Day, May 1, draws new significance this year from expanded state and federal welfare programs fostered by the social security act.

Katherine Lenrott, children's bureau director, estimates $3,000,000 is being spent nationally and locally for child welfare in the first half of 1936 and expects an equal amount will be appropriated for the second half.

The social security act authorizes federal grants to states for four types of children's aid—maternal and child health services, crippled children's services, child welfare services and aid to dependent children.

Child Aid Most Popular.

Federal money is allotted on the basis of proved state need—after the state has devised a plan acceptable to the social security board for handling the funds and has established a state agency to administer the plan.

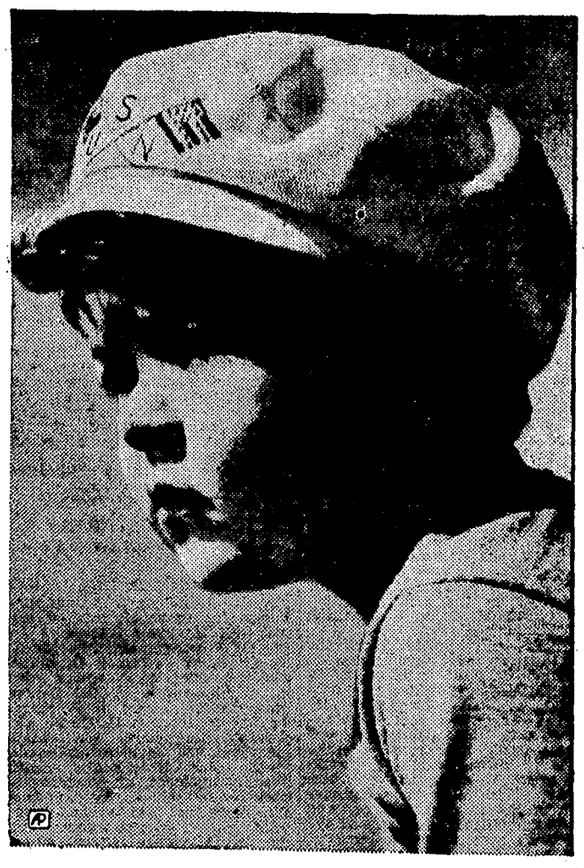

States must match federal money 50-50 for crippled children's and maternal and child health services and two-for-one for dependent children's aid. For child welfare work no ratio has been set.

With state legislatures, the children's aid provisions of the social security act, with those for the aged and blind, are proving most popular. All but one state, North Dakota, have submitted plans for receiving at least one type of federal assistance for child welfare.

Many Plans Approved.

For the first quarter of 1936, the social security board approved 38 state plans for child and maternal health services, releasing $387,857; twenty-six state programs from crippled children's services, calling for federal grants of $168,763 and 17 state proposals for aid to dependent children, with federal appropriations totaling $689,175 to 12 of these states.

State child welfare programs submitted to the social security board contemplate the following activities for the year: Pediatrics and obstetrics courses for doctors, nurses and teachers; parental classes and clinics; health conferences for pre-school children; public health nursing and home instruction; immunization services; special investigations for goiter and tuberculosis among school children.

Forty-seven states have signified their intention of cooperating in child-health provisions of the federal social security act in an effort to assure Young America a better future.

CROP OUTLOOK

rain and by the first of next week all farm work will be well under way if weather conditions are favorable. Some farmers had "dry planted" cotton following the showers of last week and the rain Tuesday was just what they needed to bring it up. A large per cent of the cotton in the county, however, remains to be planted.

Practically all of the land in the county is in excellent condition for planting and only a few days will be needed for the farmers to catch up with their work in that line.

Conversations with farmers from all sections of the county since the rain reveal that they expect to make a fair corn and feed crop if there is more rain during the growing season. Corn in some sections is late due to the early crop being killed by the frost and in some others a good standstand was not secured due to the extremely dry weather but on the whole corn is doing reasonably well and has started growing since the showers started falling.

Oats Below Normal.

Oats are below normal but the rain is expected to bring them out until most of them at least can be cut with a binder. Farmers were preparing to cut them with a mower if the dry weather had continued.

Maize, hegari, sorghum, sudan grass and other feed crops will be planted just as soon as the farmers can get to it and these usually produce well here. They offer the farmer an excellent opportunity for diversification and relieve him of depending solely upon corn and oats for feed.

Almost every farmer in the county has feed enough to make this crop, having reserved enough from the bumper crop of last year for that purpose. In the language of one farmer they are starting the crop year "even with the hounds" and feel that with anything like an even break will be in fine shape this fall.

Gardens were revived by the rain and there will be further planting of foods for the family. Farm wives will soon be busy canning and preparing food from the gardens for the winter supply.

Texas did not go to the White House, members of the delegation explaining he was delayed at a conference with Vice-President Garner at the capitol.

The President did not address the group but shook hands with each individual member.

Photographs were taken in front of the executive offices, but the president did not pose with the group.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—(AP)—One hundred Texas business and newspapermen touring the South and East in behalf of the Texas Centennial marched on the White House today to urge President Roosevelt to attend the exposition.

The chief executive set aside a few minutes on a busy calendar to receive the emissaries from the Lone Star state before noon.

President Roosevelt said many months ago he hoped to witness opening of the Centennial in Dallas June 6 but Senator Connally (D-Tx.) announced recently a late adjournment of congress and other busness might prevent the chief executive's leaving Washington at that time.

The Texans reached Washington by special train late yesterday and were greeted by Vice-President Garner, Jesse Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and several hundred other Texans living in the District of Columbia.

They attended a Texas banquet at the National Press Club last night. Among the speakers on a broadcast program were Karl Crowley, solicitor of the post-office department Jones, Senators Connally and Sheppard, Governor James V. Allred and George W. Stimpson, president of the press club and Washington correspondent of the Houston Post.

The Texans planned to leave the capital at noon for Philadelphia, New York City, Buffalo, N. Y., Chicago, Detroit, St. Louis and Kansas City remain on the itinerary which will end in Texas about May 7.

Allred, official head of the Texas Press Centennial Special train, planned an early start today on a round of informal conferences in Washington. He had an 8 a. m. appointment with Vice-President Garner and an hour later was scheduled to discuss the Texas old-age pension plan with officials of the social security board.

The Texas special train rolled into Union Station slightly behind schedule and, in order that a national broadcast of the arrival might be conducted as planned, the visitors remained in their cars while Garner, Jones and others on the reception committee waited on the platfom.

The govenor eventually emerged and apologized to Garner for the delay. The party paraded down Constitution and Pennsylvania avenues to a downtown hotel with Garner and Allred in the first car.

On March 24, when an agreement before the end of the month appeared unlikely, the 14 negotiators—seven representing each side—agreed on the 30 day extension while deliberations continued.

The mine workers, asked the operators to agree to a substantial increase in wages, a six-hour day, five day week instead of a 48-hour, six-day week, equalization of work to absorb some of the 40,000 unemployed miners, and the complete checkoff.

In a counter proposal the operators asked the miners to return to the wage scale of 1918. They estimated it would involve a 22 per cent reduction: The union contended it amounted to 27 per cent.

BANK REPORT

February and exceeded those of March a year ago by 16 per cent.

The Review notes that construction continued active the past month. Although valuation of building permits issued at principal cities fell 26 per cent under the heavy February volume, it explains, it exceeded the total fo March, 1935, by 287 per cent and was about double the March average for the preceding six years. The figures for two cities again constituted a large percentage of the total, yet those for most other reporting cities reflect substantial gains.

On ranch and from the Review reports "the deficiency of moisture over the major portion of the district the past month continues a serious drawback to farming operations and crop growth." Early planted row crops, it states, made poor to only fair progress except in favored localities. The cotton crop over a large area either had been dry seeded or planting operations delayed pending an improvement in the moisture situation.

Crop Deterioration.

The department of agriculture's April 1 report stated the wheat crop deteriorated greatly in March and the abandonment of acreage was expected to be heavy in the extremely dry area. Commercial reports indicate further deterioration occurred the first half of April.

Heavy rains in scattered localities in a considerable area of Texas recently, the Review predicts, will be of temporary material benefit. Range and livestock conditions in most areas, however, have held up fairly well and are much better than a year ago, the Review adds; but moisture is needed to insure continued growth of range vegetation.

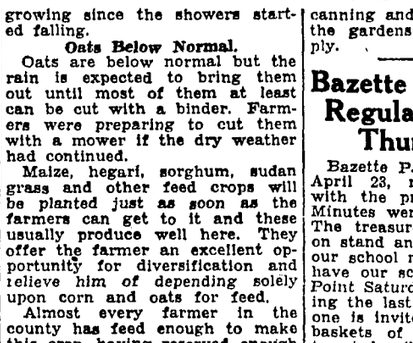

Federal Reserve Bank loans to member banks reflected a further moderate expansion between March 15 and April 15, but on the latter date they were smaller than a year ago.

The reserve deposits of member banks at the Federal Reserve Bank showed considerable fluctuation during the month and the total on April 15 was $8,926,000 lower than March 15. Loans and investment of member banks in selected cities reflected a noticeable increase between March 11 and April 8, and on the latter date were substanially larger than a year ago.

QUESTIONS THAT ARE ASKED ABOUT BANKING

"What is an amortized loan?"

AN amortized loan is one which the borrower pays off on the "installment plan." At the time the loan is granted definite provisions are made for certain payments at regular intervals.

This form of loan has the distinct advantage of enabling the borrower to reduce his debt gradually in easy payments—instead of having the entire loan to pay when it becomes due. Another advantage is that the bank can depend on certain incoming amounts and is enabled to extend new loans to other borrowers.

Since there is less likelihood of an amortized loan becoming "frozen," it offers safeguards both to the borrower and the bank. Hence it is usually a useful loan for the community as a whole.

The officers of this bank will be glad to discuss with you your loan requirements.

SECRETARY ROPER PROPOSES 10-POINT EMPLOYMENT PLAN

BUSINESS CAN ABSORB MORE OF JOBLESS THROUGH PROGRAM IS CLAIM

WASHINGTON, April 28.—(AP)—Secretary Roper today proposed a ten-point program through which he said business can absorb more of the jobless.

The administration spokesman addressed the convention of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. His speech was regarded by his audience as bearing White House approval.

The commerce secretary said "business should utilize every possible channel of approach that will result in the most effective co-operation between business and government."

Immediately preceding Roper, Harper Sibley, chamber president, called for a co-operative alliance between government and business to cure the unemployment malady.

Roper's ten-point program:

"1. Business should survey its own needs and its own conditions from the viewpoint of employing as many persons as current improvecents and future programs demand.

(The chamber announced yesterday it would survey the country to see how many jobs are available and how to fill them).

"2. As improvements in productive efficiency are secured, Business should pass on to the consumer the benefits of the lower costs of production which result.

"3. Business should form and launch industrial committees to study in a comprehensive way technilogical unemployment and methods for speeding up the transfer into other fields of earning capacity of workers replaced by machines.

Durable Goods Industries.

"4. Business should stimulate the durable goods industries by early action that will provide for capital goods and machinery replacements due to obsolescence, depreciation, and other causes.

"5. Business should develop effective and wisely engineered home building programs, privately financed and managed and adapted to local needs, to foster better American home standards.

"6. Business should launch more aggressive endeavors to expand our foreign trade all along the line and especially in co-operation with the administration's reciprocal trade agreementi program.

"7. Busness should have a research program, conducted by industry and business, for the purpose of informing business on a long term useful public works plan looking to the co-ordination of proper national, state, local and private endeavors.

"8. Business should make intensive research study of the relationships that should be maintained with respect to the production, wages, and hours of labor and the necessary methods and mechanics to be utilized in maintaining this balanced relationship.

Co-Operation Stressed.

"9. Business must recognize and apply its best endeavors to a fundamental educational program involving methods and efforts to get the states and subdivisions to re-assume their social responsibilities as soon as possible, to study economy in government and the prompting of self respect and mutual responsibility in the individuals, and in the groups and organizations of our citizens.

"10. Business should utilize every possible channel of approach that will result in the most effective co-operation between business and government."

In his address Sibley said the resources are at hand to put the jobless to work. He said the real question is whether in attacking the problem, the "characteristically American principle of economic freedom is to be maintained" or is to be "circumscribed by government controls."

"Our ills are not to be cured by the flaying of business by the politician or condemnation of politics by the business man," he declared in a speech prepared for delivery today.

Another speaker, Lewis H. Brown, president of Johns-Manville Corp., suggested that the modern paradox of improving business and continuing large-scale unemployment was due to new deal experimentation in what he called "planned economy" and an "economy of scarcity."

Saying that government officials were demanding that industry "arbitrarily" absorb more unemployed, he attacked these demands as based on "false premises". The premises, he said, assume that "industry employs employs workmen when there is no work to be done" and that "industry" has a source of income out of which to pay wages, other than the sale of goods to customers."

Citing what he termed a need for "confidence," he urged that "reforms" be postponed until after full recovery. He declared that business, "if given friendly encouragement," can provide "the only permanent, satisfying and American solution for the recovery and unemployment problems."

Plans Nationwide Survey.

The chamber, meeting in its 24th annual convention, prepared to make a nation-wide survey, possibly with the help of organized labor, to determine how many jobs can be created and how filled. The study was ordered yesterday by the directors.

Last night chamber members heard Robert L. O'Brien, Republican chairman of the tariff commission, urge endorsement of the reciprocal tariff-lowering agreements being negotiated with foreign nations by the Roosevelt administration. Trade reciprocty, he said, had the sympathetic support of "good sound forward-looking people on both political sides."

O'Brien added that wars usually were preceded by rumors of wars revolving around international trade disturbances which could be minimized by equitable trade relations.

Many speakers today dealt with details of the unemployment, farm, foreign trade, distribution, and transportation problems at special round tables.

Needed Signers Secured Force Bill to Vote

WASHINGTON, April 30.—(AP)—The 218 names needed on a petition to force the Frazier-Lemke farm mortgage refinancing bill to a house vote were obtained today.

For two sessions democratic leaders have been seeking to forestall a vote on the bill, opposed by the administration as inflationary.

Some house observers traced the sudden signing up of the petition to results of some recent primary elections.

The measure would authorize the government to issue new money up to $3,000,000,000, with which it would refinance all farm mortgages at 1 1-2 per cent each, principal and interest, over an estimated 47-year period.

The house agriculture committee approved the bill early last session, but it has rested in the rules committee since.

FREESTONE FARMERS ASKED TO HAVE ALL FARM INFORMATION

FAIRFIELD, April 28.—(Spl.)—Farmers of Freestone county who expect to take part in the new farm program should have their information ready when the committeemen call for them, says J. W. Richards, Jr., Freestone county agent. The answer to the following questions should be written out and carried to the committeemen when they start filling out the work sheets, he says:

1. Acres in each crop on the farm in 1935 (This covers corn, cotton, grain sorghums, peanuts, potatoes and others.)

2. Yield per acre of each of these crops. (For instance 15 bushels of corn per acre, 3 tons of grain sorghum, 100 bushels of potatoes, etc.

3. Acres of idle land.

4. Acres of pasture land.

5. Acres of woods land not pastured.

Acres of other land including roads, lots, yards, etc.

The total of all these acres should amount to the total land in the farm.

Filling out a work sheet does not bind the farmer in any way to take part in the program. It is entirely a voluntary program, and farmers should bear this in mind.

For their own protection farmers should measure every acre of their cultivated land at once before filling out the work sheet.

Former Streetman Editor Turns Poet

The following poem, written by Ira Dorsey of Muncie, Indiana, formerly editor of the Streetman Enterprise, which has ceased publication, and dedicated to his friends, has been sent in with the request for its publication by a Streetman friend of the Indiana man:

When Some One Cares.
By Ira Dorsey.

When you meet with disappointment and you are feeling kinda blue:
When your plans have all sidetracked, or some friend has proved untrue,
When you're toiling, praying, struggling at the bottom of the stairs,
It makes you feel so different just to know that someone cares.

It will send a thrill of rapture through the frame-work of the heart;
It will stir the inner being 'til the tear drops want to start,
For life is worth the living when some one your sorrow shares—
Yes, life is truly worth the living when you know that some one cares.

The world is not all sunshine—some days the clouds disclose,
There's a cross for every joy-bell, and a thorn for every rose.
But the cross is not so grevious, nor the thorn the rose bud wears;
And the clouds have silver linings —when you know that some one cares.

ADMINISTRATION'S REVENUE AND REFORM BILL GOES SENATE

MEASURE DESIGNED RAISE FUNDS FOR BONUS AND FARM RELIEF

WASHINGTON, April 29.—(AP)—The administration's $803,000,000 tax bill was passed by the heavily-democratic house today over opposition votes of the republican minority.

Speaker Byrns announced the vote as 267 to 93.

The bulky measure, designed to raise funds to meet bonus and farm relief costs and embracing a complete revision of the corporate tax system, now goes to the senate where the finance committee already has begun its consideration.

Tomorrow, Secretary Morgenthau will testify before the committee at its first public hearing.

A somewhat warmer reception awaited the measure in the senate committee than it would have received last week. Criticism of the proposal was less in evidence among the Democratic committee members and many of them were forecasting its approval.

The major feature of the bill was a tax on corporation income graduated on the basis of earnings withheld from distribution to stockholders.

Linked with application of the normal 4 per cent income tax on dividends, it is expected to bring in $623,000,000 additional to help meet President Roosevelt's request for farm and bonus funds.

The vote on passage, cleft among party lines, was a mere formality which sealed the tentative approval given the bill yesterday. With only four changes —all proposed by the ways and means committee in charge of the legislation, the 236-page measure had been hustled through the amendment stage with such speed as to give rise to protests of "unfair" and "steam-roller" tactics.

More Equitable Taxation.

Its backers claim it will lead to more equitable taxation, particularly as between corporations and partnerships, and at the same time remove the greatest loopholes for tax evasion—the ability of individuals to avoid high surtaxes on incomes by impounding income in corporate surpluses.

Republicans contended the bill would shake the stability of business, tend toward creation of monopolies and fall far short of its estimated yield. They have branded it dangerous, unsound, vicious and radical.

In addition to the revenue to be produced from the new corporate tax plan, $100,000,000 is expected from an 80 per cent "windfall" levy on processors who did not pay AAA processing taxes and $83,000,000 from temporary continuation of excess profits and capital stock taxes.

The latter ultimately would be repealed, along with the present corporate income tax of 12 1-2 to 15 per cent.

The new corporation rates would range up to 29 1-2 per cent for corporations with taxable income of $10,000 or less and up to 42 1-2 per cent for those with larger net earnings.

Special concessions in the form of flat rates have been made for corporations which must use some of their income to retire debts or meet deficits, and those in receivership.

Banks, trust companies and insurance companies, which are required by law to buildup reserves to protect depositions, would be omitted from the graduated corporation taxes and would pay a flat 15 per cent of net income.

The bill also provide for refunds of taxes on floor stocks on hand at the time of invalidation of the AAA and on commodities but claims would not be allowed for amounts under $10.

Highlights of Tax Bill Passed Today

WASHINGTON, April 29.—(AP)—The tax bill at a glance, as passed today by the house.

Corporations would be taxed on net income rates graduated according to percentages of earnings withheld from distribution in dividends to stockholders, and stockholders would be required to pay the 4 per cent normal income tax on dividends, which now are subject only to surtaxes.

The present corporation income tax would be repealed, and eventually the existing excess profits and capital stock taxes.

An 80 per cent "windfall" tax would be applied to processors who did not pay the old AAA processing taxes or received refunds of impounded taxes.

To provide "relief" for debt-burdened corporations, those with income insufficient to cover deficits and those in receiverships would receive a flat tax rate on part of their income instead of the graduated corporation tax.

Flat rates also would be applied to banks, trust companies and insurance companies, since they are required by law to build up reserves.

Refunds would be granted on taxes on floor stocks on hand at the time the AAA was invalidated and on commodities sold abroad or to tax-evempt institutions.

Hope for Final Vote In House Wednesday

WASHINGTON, April 29.—(AP)—While the administration tax bill sped toward final approval today by the house, Democratc sentiment in the senate seemed to be swinging to the support of the $803,000,000 revenue raising plans.

House leaders hoped to get a final vote on the measure by nightfall and send it to the senate where public hearings open tomorrow with testimony by Secretary Morgenthau.

Comments by members of the senate finance committee showed that most Democrats were more friendly to the proposal than a few days ago.

Five days of testimony by congressional and treasury tax men, in executive session, had removed from the minds of several committee members objections to the proposal which they had previously voiced. The chief point on which they apparently had been reassured was the revenue to be realized by the measure.

Treasury men told them that estimates of $623,000,000 new revenue through the corporation tax revision were made after careful study of the 1935 income tax returns to learn exactly where additional dividends would go and now much tax would be paid on them.

(The administration bill would tax corporations on a graduated scale up to 42 1-2 per cent, depending upon how much of net income they withheld from distribution.)

Senator King (D-Utah) was still opposed to the bill and was preparing a substitute designed to raise $1,000,000,000 through increased income taxes and slightly higher corporate levies. Other members of the committee forecast, however, that his plan would be rejected.

Woman Accused In Death Husband Makes Statement

CENTER, April 30.—(AP)—District Attorney Wardlow Lane announced today that Mrs. Eable Childs, charged with murder in connection with the slaying last Thursday night of her wealthy husband, had made a statement.

Lane said the statement told of her being friendly with Terrance Bramlett, 21, who also is in jail charged with murder.

A statement attributed to Bramlett said Morlie Childs, 35, crippled former treasurer of Shelby county, was shot to death in a plot to obtain his property, valued at approximately $30,000. Childs was practically an invalid as a result of infantile paralysis.

A small-caliber bullet fired through his bathroom window at close range while he was brushing his teeth killed him.

Ranger Captain R. H. McCormick and Ranger Dan Hines, with Shelby county authorities, took Mrs. Childs and Bramlett, former civilian conservation corps worker, to San Augustine for questioning yesterday after the charges were filed.

The date for their preliminary trial had not been set.

Popular Wortham Girl Married At High Noon Saturday

WORTHAM, April 28.—(Spl.)—A wedding of much interest was that of Miss Mary Katherine Adams of Wortham and Mr. Marley W. Smith of Jefferson City, Mo., who were married Saturday, April 25, at high noon in the Central Presbyterian church of Wortham, the pastor, Rev. C. C. Elrod, officiating clergyman. Artistically reflecting the beautiful solemnity of the occasion was the decorative arrangement, of a white and green color scheme in snapdragons, roses and daisies and ferns, which converted the rostrum and chancel rail into Nature's flower garden.

I was here that the bride and bridegroom plighted their troth in the presence of relatives and a few close friends. The pre-nuptial music was given by Miss Grace Hackney, organist, and Mrs. John Munroe, soloist. The program was introduced with an organ solo, "O Promise Me." Mrs. Munroe sang "Sweetest Story Ever Told," and "I Love You Truly." The favorite wedding march from the organ announced the wedding party.

The minister came from the pastor's study, the bridegroom and his best man, Mr. Herman Adams of Waco, marched from the choir room, taking places near the altar. The bride entered on the arm of her father, who, in the lovely ring ceremony, gave his daughter in marriage. At the altar where the minister of God spoke his final benediction, the husband and wife awaited for well wishes and hearty congratulations of those present.

Mrs. Smith was charming and radiantly beautiful in her new happiness as she presented her husband to his new relatives and new friends. She was gowned in her going-away costume of dark blue triple sheer with harmonizing accessories.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Smith left by train for a brief wedding trip, after which they will be at their home in Jefferson City, Mo.

Mrs. Smith is the popular young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Adams of Wortham, but formerly of Waco. She is a graduate of the Waco High school and attended Baylor University. She was also a student at the University of Missouri. Mr. Smith is the son of Mrs. Oscar Smith of Brookhaven, Miss. After graduating from high school he alos attended the University of Missouri.

Out of town guests noted were: From Waco, Mr. Herman Adams, Miss Merle Adams, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Van Hook and R. B. Van Hook, Jr.; from Corsicana, Mrs. Estelle Skelton, Mrs. T. C. Orr and Dr. and Mrs. W. R. Sneed.

Mrs. Smith was the recipient of a number of pre-nuptial courtesies. Among the number of such affairs Miss Dorothy Drane of Corsicana entertained with a luncheon Friday, while Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. Van Hook Stubbs of Wortham entertained the bridal party with large dinner party.

"The Derrick" Is Under Construction

Construction of "The Derrick," new eating establishment on Highway 75 is scheduled to be resumed as soon as weather permits according to information received Wednesday morning, and will be ready for business about June 1.

The new place is being built on a plot of ground immediately south of the intersection of Highways 75 and State 22 by Tippy Sheets, owner of the Silver Grill in Corsicana.

The 66-foot derrick which will form the basis of the structure has been completed and other work is scheduled to follow promptly. The outside of the place will closely resemble a "standardized" producing oil well, and will have the dining room located in the derrick, with the kitchen and service bar in the space ordinarily occupied by the walking-beam, while the "engine-house" will be used as a store room. Plans for the building call for ultra-modernistic decorations on the interior.

PENNSYLVANIA VOTES HEAVILY IN FAVOR OF ROOSEVELT TUESDAY

PRESIDENT POLLS AN OVERWHELMING MAJORITY OVER OPPONENT

PHILADELPHIA, April 29.—(AP)—Pennsylvania democracy voiced its preference for President Roosevelt for re-election with a landslide vote over his first statewide opposition in Tuesday's presidential preferential primary.

At the same time, Senator William E. Borah, unopposed in the Republican preferential, polled a total of 183,704 in returns from 3,022 of the state's 7,983 districts.

Facing the first candidate to oppose him in any state preferential ballotting, Mr. Roosevelt rolled up an 18 to 1 lead over Colonel Henry Breckenridge, New York attorney and new deal critic.

The vote in 3,248 of the state's 7,983 districts in the Democratic preferential showed:

Roosevelt, 312,288.

Breckenridge, 17,204.

From these returns, both Republican and Democratic, political observers sought possible indication of the way the industrial east may take in this presidential election year.

Although Senator Borah was the lone candidate to file in the Republican balloting, there was "write in" voting in several counties, with Governor Alf M. Landon of Kansas receiving most of these and former President Herbert Hoover and Senator Arthur M. Vandenburg also being named.

The preferential vote is not binding on the delegates to the national conventions, also elected in yesterday's balloting, despite the fact that under an old election law, Borah would be the "popular choice" if he received most votes in the Republican preferential.

Republican leaders have said, however, they expect an uninstructed Pennsylvania delegation to the Cleveland conclave, while democratic chieftains, who worked to bring out a full vote for Roosevelt in the pre-primary campaign, hope to have a delegation to their party convention solidly behind the President. Col. Breckenridge did no campaigning in the state.

BUILDING PROBLEMS DISCUSSED TUESDAY AT MORTGAGE CLINIC

Considerable interest was being manifested Tuesday in the "insured mortgage" clinic being conducted in Corsicana Tuesday by Hubert McPeak, field representative of the Federal Housing Administration in the Corporation court room of the city hall.

Several persons with building problems were waiting for conferences with the FHA official when the doors were opened at 9 o'clock, and a steady stream of visitors were seen during the major portion of the day. Mr. McPeak reported that it was the most enthusiastic reception the federal building program had ever received in Corsicana, and that in addition to the personal calls, a number of letters asking for information were received during the day.

The clinic was scheduled to close Tuesday afternoon at 5 o'clock, and a similar meeting held in Hillsboro on Wednesday and Thursday, but the field representative indicated that an effort would be arranged for another clinic in Corsicana within the near future, probably early in June.

Co-operative efforts were staged by the various lumber yards of the city and other interested units to stimulate the building program in the city.

The federal representative reported that both of the Corsicana banks and all of the lumber yards had complete information on the details of the various plans and would be glad to discuss building problems with those interested who were unable to attend the Tuesday meeting.

Sick and Convalescent.

W. T. Parker, who has been ill in the Navarro Clinic for the past few days, was reported to be a little better Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Charles Simon has received word that her brother-in-law, Alex Aron of Moody, who recently underwent an operation at Temple, was some better today. Mr. Aron was a former resident of Navarro county.

TALENTED WOMAN MISSING; RUMORS OF DROWNING AT SEA

DAUGHTER-IN-LAW FORMER MASSACHUSETTS GOVERNOR HAS DISAPPEARED

NEW YORK, April 28.—(AP)—Conflicting stories of a supposed midnight leap from the liner Georgic at sea April 20 baffled searchers today for the talented Mrs. Hazel Archibald Draper, mysteriously missing daughter-in-law of a former governor of Massachusetts.

The ship arrived in Cobh, Ireland, last night, but did not report a drowning. New York police had coupled her disappearance with unverified reports from the Cunard-White Star liner of a woman's leap about 150 miles out from New York.

Mrs. Draper, 42, wife of a wealthy former state senator in Massachusetts, dropped from sight after leaving a Kotonah, N. Y., sanitarium on April 19.

Police, seeking her at the request of her husband, Eben S. Draper of Hopedale, Mass., said they traced her to a midtown hotel (The Shelton) here where a woman answering her description left a note saying she intended to stow away on a Europe-bound ship and commit suicide at sea.

She named the Georgic. When the vessel arrived at the port it was reported the passenger list included no one named Draper.

Police said they learned from the liner that an unidentified woman had leaped overboard April 20 at midnight and that a fruitless search had been made for her.

Their information from the ship's master, police said, was that the woman, however, was a passenger.

Line officials, on the other hand, said they had heard nothing about a suicide at sea or a stowaway although they are ordinarily advised promptly of either occurrence.

In Boston, also Charles B. Barnes, attorney for Draper, said the family had communicated with the Georgic's captain who had assured them that no one, s far as he knew, went overboard from his ship.

The police persisted they had learned from the ship that a woman, seen pacing the decks after borrowing a coat from a steward, suddenly plunged into the sea.

Draper, at his Hopedale home, said he was unconvinced his wife was dead and ordered the search continued.

Liberal High School Curriculum Subject Emhouse PTA Meet

Mrs. C. D. Owen, the program chairman, had charge of the opening exercises of the Emhouse P. T. A. Thursday, April 23. Mr. Miller, the vocational agriculture teacher, led the discussion, his subject being, "A Liberal High School Curriculum."

Many boys and girls between the ages of 14 to 18 drop out of school before they graduate. They have different excuses or reasons for this. Some have to help support the family, but the majority have a dislike for their subjects or become discouraged and quit school. How can the high eschool curriculum be adjusted or improved in orderto meet the needs and demands of the pupil? Mr. Miller gave some solutions to this problem which were helpful and practical. The addition of special courses will aid largely in this solution.

Mrs. Owen led in a panel discussion with different members. The following subjects with sub-divisions were discussed: "What Is the Job of High School?" "The Parents' Part in Choosing the Child's Curriculum."

Mrs. B. W. Gamble deserves much credit for her thoughtfulness and interest in the P. T. A. work since she became president a few months ago. Through her directed efforts, the budget of $95.50 has been raised and we have "gone over the top." The hen sale amounted to $65.07, advertising play, $43.50; proceeds from the play, $37.70, total, $146.27. This money will be used to assist the high school in its different activities.

The new officers will eb installed at the next meeting and we are looking forward to a very inspiring and impressive ceremony. All members are urged to be present and visitors are also invited.

After the conclusion of all business, the refreshment committee served ice cream and cake.—Reporter.

WIDOW OF SLAIN SHELBY COUNTY MAN CHARGED IN MURDER

YOUNG DISCHARGED CCC WORKER ALSO CHARGED IN CENTER ASSASSINATION

CENTER, April 29.—(AP)—The slaying of Morlie Childs, wealthy ex-treasurer of Shelby county, was charged today against his widow, Mrs. Reba Childs, and Terrance Bramlett, and they were transferred secretly to an unnamed jail.

A bullet fired through his bathroom window while he was brushing his teeth last Thursday night killed Childs, 35. Investigators decided the small-caliber bullet, which hit him behind the ear, was fired at close range, as powder burns were found on the window screen.

Bramblett, 21, described by Sheriff J. B. Sample as a discharged Civilian Conservation Corps worker whose home was in Jefferson, had been in jaill since yesterday and the sheriff, aided by Texas Rangers, had questioned him most of the night. The sheriff said Bramlett and the widow were friends.

Mrs. Childs, 35, had been questioned previously about the case and released. She was re-arrested on the murder charge today. Sheriff Sample said a 36-page statement made by Bramlett "implicated her."

Ranger Captain R. H. McCormick and Ranger Dan Elnes came here to asist Shelby county officers in the case.

Justice of the Peace John Carroll had returned a coroner's verdict of murder.

The sheriff said Childs had property valued at approximately $30,000 and that Bramlett's statement told of the slaying being committed to obtain Childs' property.

Officers were hold in evidence the bullet which killed Childs. They said Bramlett's statement related how he borrowed a .22 calibre rifle. Officers planned to determine whether the fatal bullet was fired from the rifle.

TAX BILL

adherence to an orderly program looking to a balance of the federal budget just as soon as the needs and abilities of our people make that possible and thereafter upon a steady reduction in the public debt."

It was Morgenthau's first appearance on the controversial tax program which has been assailed by republicans and some speakers at the convention of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States as offering a blow to re-employment and business recovery.

President Roosevelt's suggestion for temporary processing taxes did not even receive committee approval in the house.

Morgenthau, turning to the President's proposal for taxing corporations on a basis of percentages of undistributed income, center of the controversy over the tax measure, said it was merely an extension of the principle of "taxation according to ability to pay" which he said had "the undoubted and unquestioned endorsement and support of the citizens of this nation."

Estimated Yield Lower.

The treasury secretary, for the first time, however, disclosed that this new corporate tax plan, estimated to yield $620,000,000 annually in permanent revenue, would raise only $310,000,000 for the first fiscal year.

"It must be recognized," he said, "that the choice of an income tax as the means for raising additional revenue necessarily involves a delay in realization of increased receipts.

"Receipts from taxes on corporate incomes for the calendar year 1936 will be collected in the main during the calendar year 1937 and will be divided between the two fiscal years, the fiscal year 1937, ending June 30, 1937, and the fiscal year 1938.

"The net additional revenue to be expected from the application of the corporate income tax is estimated to be $310,000,000 in the fiscal year 1937. The full additional annual revenue would be collected in the fiscal year 1938."

Morgenthau was accompanied by a half dozen aides. When he took the stand, in the middle of the semi-circle of committee members, he joked for a minute, and then with more serious expression began to read from a prepared statement.

Tax Avoidance

Without referring specifically to plans of some senators—notably LaFollette (P-Wis) and King (D-Utah)—to propose a general boost in individual income taxes, Morgenthau said:

"What are the dimensions of tax avoidance with which we are dealing? A few simple figures tell the story. It has been estimated by the treasury department that under the present tax law the income tax liability of corporations on the basis of 1936 earnings would approximate 964 millions.

"The department has also estimated that under the present law more than four and one-half billion dollars of corporation income in the calendar year 1936 will be withheld from stockholders and that if this income were fully distributed to the individual owners of the stock represented in these corporations, the resultant yield in additional individual income taxes would be about one billion three hundred millions.

"With tax avoidance occurring on the scale indicated by the figures I have cited, I do not see how any increase in individual income tax rates or other general and continuing taxation could be justified until this leak in our tax system is stopped."

Special Responsibility.

Mongenthau began by saying that as secretary of the treasury he felt "a special responsibility to do all in my power to maintain the integrity of the President's budget of January 3, 1936; and therefore to see that the supplemental revenues made necessary by the developments of the past few months be provided."

"The treasury," he added, "has been able to borrow readily the amounts necessary to finance the recovery program and has been able to obtain these loans at steadily decreasing interest rates. The continuance of this satisfactory situation however will depend upon scrupulous adherence to orderly program looking to a balance of the federal budget just as soon as the needs and abilities of our people make that possible and thereafter upon a steady reduction in the public debt."

Then recalling the events which had cut holes in the President's budget—the bonus and the supreme court's AAA decision—Morgenthau said they required additional permanent revenue of $620,000,000 a year and $517,000,000 of temporary taxes to recoup for this year's lost processing tax revenue.

He noted President Roosevelt's three recommendations for taxes to raise this amount of revenue, and said the house bill gave effect to only two of them.

No Temporary Reserves.

"The bill thus fully provides the $620,000,000 needed to take care of the permanent agricultural program and the annual financing of the payment of the soldiers' bonus," he said. "It also provides for the first year of three-year program for recouping the loss of $517,000,000 of processing taxes lost during the fiscal year 1936. However, it does not provide any temporary revenue for the two succeesing years to make up the balance of the $337,000,000 of temporary revenues desired."

Calling to the committee's attention the President's third recommendation—for processing taxes on a broader base but with lower rates than under the AAA—Morgenthau said "I call this potential source of additional revenue to your attention again."

In his conclusion, the secretary again referred to this question:

"I sincerely hope that this committee will report to the senate a bill giving effect, as fully as possible, to the President's recommendations of the amount of additional revenue needed to supply the deficiencies created since the budget message of January 3."

Morgenthau said he needed to say little about the bill's proposal to levy a "windfall" or "unjust enrichment" tax on refunded processing taxes.

"I have not heard the justice of this tax very seriously questioned," he aded.

Mexico Hopes for Future Peace

Plutarco Elias Calles

President Lazaro Cardenas

Calles in exile at daughter's home

The same political storm that swept former President Plutarco Elias Calles into exile in United States, perhaps forever, appears to have left in its wake a Mexico hopefully facing a long period of comparative tranquility. President Lazaro Cardenas' drastic order for deportation of the former "strong man of Mexico" seems to have cleared up a tense situation which began with the return of Calles from voluntary exile six months ago. Calles found that his former political ally, by the simple expedient of giving the people some of the things which Calles had promised them when he was in power but had not fulfilled, has established himself in an impregnable position. Cardenas foresaw the inevitable showdown which must result if Calles remained in Mexico. He anticipated the situation by his order deporting the former "strong man". It may be that this sudden turn in Mexican politics will mark the beginning of a more tranquil era and one more prosperous for the nation at large.

Senate Committee Calls Morgenthau

WASHINGTON, April 30.—(AP)—The senate finance committee called Secretary Morgenthau to testify today as the first witness in public hearings on the new $803,000,000 tax bill.

Majority leaders prepared to seek floor action as quickly as possible but expressed no hope the measure would go through with anything like the speed with which the house passed it yesterday, 267 to 83.

They expressed the opinion that support from some of the Republican independents would make up for defections in the Democratic ranks when the measure came up for a vote.

Senator Norris (R-Neb.) has said he favors the bill in principle and Senator LaFollette (Prog.-Wis.) and some others others have shown sympathy toward it.

Nevertheless, LaFollette himself has drawn up amendments to boost individual income taxes, and Senator King (D-Utah) is preparing a substitute bill somewhat similar to LaFollette's.

(The principle feature of the house bill, drafted after President Roosevelt called for tax revision, is a sweeping alteration of the corporate tax structure. With the idea of inducing greater distribution of corporate income in the form of dividends, the bill would lay a tax on corporation income, graduated according to the percentage withheld from distribution. Dividends then would be subject to normal income taxes, as well as surtaxes.)"

Industrial leaders, now in the capital to attend the sessions of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, also will appear before the committee.

The finance committee planned to consider the President's recommendations for new processing taxes, left out of the house bill.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS and SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD — The screen son of Greta Garbo, Dolores Costello Barrymore and Elizabeth Allan went through assorted tragic moments in his storied relations to each.

Now 12-year-old Freddie Bartholomew has become the center of a real-life dramatic situation that has all Hollywood interested.

On one side in the controversy is Freddie's aunt, Miss Myllicent Bartholomew, who has had charge of his education and training for past nine years, and who recently had herself appointed his legal guardian in the California courts.

On the other side are Freddie's parents. His mother, Mrs. Lillian Mae Bartholomew, has come from London to contest her sister-in-law's custody of the child "wonder actor" whose film earnings are more than $1,250 a week. His father, Mrs. Bartholomew explained, remained in England because of illness.

And in the middle is—Freddie.

Two Versions

When Freddie and his aunt arrived in Hollywood more than two years ago in answer to the movies' need for a "David Copperfield," Miss Myllicent Bartholomew explained they were present—with his parents' permission—on a vacation. That he should be "Copperfield" was "in the back of their minds," of course, she said. Freddie's mother says that, when they left, his aunt already had the contract.

Freddie, a precocious youngster who intends to write "contemplative novels" when he grows up, and meanwhile belies his almost fragile appearance by indulging in the roughest sports permitted, became of starring calibre after "David Copperfield," played Garbo's son in "Anna Karenina," did "Professional Soldier" with Victor McLaglen and most recently was "Little Lord Fauntleroy" to Dolores Costello's "Dearest."

Mother Arrives

Somewhere along the way his salary was jumped from $100 a week to $1,250. Last October, Miss Myllicent went into court in Los Angeles and was granted sole legal custody of the boy, with his parents granted a limited period of appeal. His mother arrived in New York before that period expired.

In Hollywood the lad always has been voluble in his affection for his aunt, who started him on nursery rhymes and had him reciting Shakespeare — and liking it — before he was six.

So the stage is set (barring that amicable settlement the attorneys talk about) for one of the town's most heart-rending off-screen dramas.

NAZI PUTSCH IN HUNGARY BELIEVED BLOCKED BY RAIDS

EIGHTEEN HUNGARIAN NAZI LEADERS REPORTED BE UNDER ARREST

BUDAPEST, April 29.—(AP)—Police announced today that, by simultaneous raids in several districts, they had uncovered a Nazi plot to engineer some kind of a putsch about May 1.

Eighteen Hungarian Nazi leaders, including Dr. Zoltan Boszormeny, reputed to be national chief of the movement, were arrested.

Authorities said they found 40 uniforms of generals and colonels of the Hungarian army in Dr. Boszormeny's home.

Officals asserted that they were informed the Nazi sympathizers planned to wear these uniforms as pseudo-officers and had prepared to take charge of the troops in the capital.

At the same time, police said they had received information that a large number of Nazi sympathizers, living in rural districts had received secret orders to come to udapest May 1.

Authorities expressed confidence that the alleged conspiracy was completely crushed.

Admiral Nicholas Horthy, regent of Hungary, has governed Hungary firmly ever since 1920 when he was elected to office after overthrowing the communist reign of Bela Kun.

While Hungary still is technically a monarchy, it has no king.

UP TO ROOSEVELT ADMINISTRATION TO SPEED EMPLOYMENT

UNITED STATES CHAMBER SPEAKER DECLARES SPENDING, TAXES MUST BE CURBED

By JAMES R. BRACKETT
Associated Press Staff Writer.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—(AP)—A leader in the Chamber of Commerce of the United States declared today that it is up to the Roosevelt administration itself to speed the re-employment of idle millions by curbing government spending and changing new deal tax policies.

Fred H. Clausen of Horicon, Wis. chairman of the chamber's committee on federal finance, said in a speech prepared for delivery today at the chamber's 24th convention:

"Notwithstanding the repeated challenge of the administration that private industry assume the obligation of re-employment, new exactions of government have had the direct effect of retarding that very process."

Attacking both the "wealth tax" act of last year and the pending bill to revise the corporate tax structure, he urged that "The federal taxing power be returned to tis proper function and be limited to the raising of the revenues required for the economical administration of government.

The chamber, he said, "considers that the outstanding problem that America faces today is the inability to control public expenditures and obtain a balanced federal budget."

Busines men are much concerned over it, he said, and "that concern is deepened when we realize that there is no convincing general recognition by those in authority of the serious situation."

New Tax Plan Assailed.

This year's tax proposal, involving among other features a graduated tax on undistributed corporation income and removal of the present exemption of dividends from the normal 4 per cent income tax, was assailed by Clausen in these words:

"Five times since 1932 and we wonder what the end can be. Shall we cry out in despair 'Lord, how long—and how much?' after an intensive training period the past three years, I realize that we are combatting the opinions of economic advisers most of whom never operated a private industry nor met a factory payroll."

"Since the 1933 policy of economy vanished into thin air," he said "only one formula to replenish the treasury has been in evidence: More taxes on men and corporations engaged in industry and commerce, and drain the reservoirs for productive enterprise.

"The tax bill now before congress is just another expression of this formula, fearful in its consequences and destructive of American business solvency."

REPUBLICANS FAVOR GOVERNOR LANDON IN MASSACHUSETTS

WRITEIN VOTE FOR KANSAN MORE THAN ALL OTHER REPUBLICANS

BOSTON, April 28.—(AP)—Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas was given the largest Republican "write-in" vote in the Massachusetts presidential preference primary, exceeding that of all others on Republican ballots, nearly complete returns showed today.

It was uncertain how many of the Republicans who voted for delegates to the national and state conventions also expressed themselves directly as to their choice for presidential nominee. No tabulation was made of the total vote for delegates as compared with the total preference vote.

Under Massachusetts law a space is provided on the ballot for the voter to write in his preference for president. No names of probable presidential candidates are printed on it.

The supporters of Landon had been active for weeks seeking his endorsement. Others among the leading preference vote-getters, who made no active appeal for endorsement were: Former President Hoover, Senators William E. Borah and Arthur Vanderberg, and Col. Frank Knox, Chicago and Manchester, N. H., publisher.

None of the 33 Republican delegate candidates was pledged and none will be bound in any way by the preference vote.

Democrats elected 38 delegates. Incomplete figures indicated 36 pledged to Roosevelt were victorious. The two unpledged winners, however, were believed favorable to the president.

Returns from 1492 election precincts out of 1529 including all of Boston, gave:

Borah, 4175; Hoover, 6773; Knox, 1819; Landon, 71,224; Vandenberg, 1953.

The majority of the preference votes on Democratic ballots were for President Roosevelt. Sixty-two cities and towns out of 355 gave him 20,201 votes. Democratic leaders amintained, however, his complete vote would not be an exact indication of his strength in Massachusetts.

They contended many voters who cast their ballots for Roosevelt-pledged delegates did not take the trouble to write in the president's name in the space provided for preference.

Edwin F. Parker, president of the Landon for President Club of Massachusetts, asserted the Landon vote expressed to the nation that Massachusetts voters "appreciate the importance of electing as president of the United States a man who will clean up the mess in Washington."

Complete Returns.

BOSTON, April 29.—(AP)—Complete returns from Massachusetts' 1529 election precincts in the Republican presidential preference primary, give: Borah, 4,342; Hoover, 7,214; Knox, 1,910; Landon, 76,710; Vandenberg 2,117.

NO OPPOSITION TO GARNER AS NATIONAL DEMO COMMITTEEMAN

ONLY QUESTION IS WHETHER VICE PRESIDENT WILL ACCEPT POST AGAIN

AUSTIN, April 29.—(AP)—No opposition has appeared openly against the re-election of Vice President John N. Garner as democratic committeeman from Texas with the state convention which will make the decision only one month away.

The vice president was chosen two years ago in the interest of harmony when dissension over the election of former governor, James E. Ferguson by the state executive committee threatened to assume serious proportions.

Sources close to Governor Jas. V. Allred, who strongly favored the election of Garner in 1934, indicated he would have no objection to giving the vice-president another term, and probably would use his influence actively to bring it about. In all his speeches, the governor has praised Garner's services, asserting there was close accord between state and national party administrations.

In fact, political observers thought the chief question was whether Garner, in view of his multitudinous duties in connection with the vice-presidency, wanted the committeeman's post again, or would prefer to turn it over to someone else.

"Garner will accept if he is elected again," one commentator said, "but he doesn't really want the job. He would rather get out of it. He went in last time just to keep down a controversy."

Even those who would like to see the honor passed around were reported uneasy over risking a fight on a successor to the vice-president. Most persons contacted expressed the opinion the re-election of Garner was the best guarantee to peace within the party.

Garner was elected by the executive committee at the conveniton which met in Galveston, although the usual procedure is for the convention which chooses delegates to the national party conventions to elect. The convention meets in San Antonio May 26.

The departure from custom was due to the resignation of Jed Adams of Dallas to accept a government job, and the subsequent election of Ferguson and his resignation. Ferguson stepped out, with the understanding Garner would be selected when bitter opposition to his seating developed.

Newsreel Proves Educational Aid

Recent developments in the field of the newsreel suggest that this branch of modern photography may soon prove an important factor in the educational system of the future. Possibilities which the newsreel has along such lines has been demonstrated by the new historical newsreel which reviews significant highlights of a certain subject, personage or country. Travelogs of educational value have been issued to schools and cultural organizations. Industries are making instructive newsreels tracing the history of their products in the realization that such promotion and publicity has a definite value for them. Another of the newer type of newsreel treats exhaustively of some current topic, approaching it from various angles, rather than presenting a series of episodic subjects. Thousands of schools have installed projectors and are showing movies in conjunction with classroom work and an even greater extension of activity along this line is anticipated.

Hospital Insurance Plan Gains

Thirteen important cities now have in operation a system of hospital insurance which is winning increasing popularity. In New York alone more than 65,000 are enrolled in the system, each one paying $10 a year, a fee which entitles them to 21 days of bed, board and treatment at any one of the 147 affiliated hospitals in case of sickness. While the system has obvious advantages, it fails, in the opinion of Dr. Thomas Parran, Jr., new surgeon general of United States public health service, to meet the financial problems of the modern doctor. Dr. Parran advocates an extension of federal service in the medical field, leaving active management of the program to the physicians. He would provide free drugs and treatment for all who could not pay, the cost to be borne by the government, but would continue private practice wherever possible.

CONGRESSIONAL PLAYBOY TALKS ON MANY SUBJECTS BUT REFUSES CONFIRM OR DENY HIS MARRIAGE

WASHINGTON, April 29.—(AP)—Rep. Marion Zioncheck of Washington state today prepared a brief on congressional immunity with one hand and received congratulations on his day-old marriage with the other.

Still doggedly refusing to admit or deny he was married yesterday to Rubye Luise Nix, 21, blond and pretty PWA stenographer, he quibbed.

"I don't let one hand know what the other is doing."

The brief dealt with immunity from arrest. He said it was inspired by his skirmish last week with police when he was fined for speeding and contempt of court.

"But what about your honeymoon plans?" interrupted newsmen.

"Who, me?" he came back with exaggerated surprise. "Well, I'll tell you, that sounds like a good idea, I think I'll propose to her."

Informed that the Rev. Paul R. Diehl of Annapolis, Md., had confirmed that he married the couple, the congressman said:

"This all reminds me that there is a commotion in the ocean and the ocean is full of commotion."

After several more unsuccessful tries, newsmen left their pockets bulging with quotations from Zioncheck on practically every subject except his marriage.

Among his pronouncements were:

A challenge to meet the American tennis champion for charity's sake.

That he can train turtles and make friends with monkeys in the zoo.

That he can play the piano, sing and play golf.

And that he has few rivals when it comes to making Irish stew.

Demonstrations followed each assertion.

While this was taking place in his apartment, the bride, a former employe in the office of Rep. Dies (D-Texas), said she first heard of the 35-year-old representative when she was working on Capitol Hill last year.

Earlier Zioncheck said he met her last week when she telephoned him to tell him that she thought he was "a pretty swell fellow."

He added that he "went down to look her over and found her a k."

CIVITAN SPEAKER DECLARES FASCISM SPREAD IN AMERICA

CHATFIELD MINISTER WAS SPEAKER BEFORE LUNCHEON CLUB THURSDAY

Four qualities that fascism stands for and which are becoming manifest in the United States today were explained by Rev. W. M. Justice, Chatfield Methodist minister, at Thursday's luncheon meeting of the Civitan club at the Navarro hotel. Three musical numbers by Sidney Miller, violinist-composer, preceded the address.

Officers for the ensuing year were elected following a report of the nominating committee by Russell Purifoy, chairman. The officers elected by acclamation were Robert Cason, president; Ed Wendorf, first vice-president; O. F. Allen, second vice-president and L. K. Carraway, secretary, re-elected.

In charge of today's program was Secretary Carraway and Bob Tripp, and President Roy Peebles appointed Robert Cason and N. Suttle Roberts as next Thursday's committee.

Sidney Miller, accompanied by Randolph Mitchell, played "Gloomy Sunday," the famous Hungarian suicide song, "Lost," and "Tnthony, Why Are You Adverse?" the latter being his own composition.

The Rev. Mr. Justice said there are two facts facing the United States and the world at large today, that are of such serious proportions they demand the careful thought and attention of everyone. The first, he said, is the threat of war, and the second the threat of fascism spreading over the world.

Three War Threats.

He said Italy, Germany and Japan are the three war "storm centers" at the present time, and pointed out the difficulties that will result in keeping the United States neutral while the rest of the world goes "war mad."

The second, the Rev. Mr. Justice said, is the spread of fascism over the world. He analyzed four qualities of fascism and showed that each is spreading in the United States at the present time. They were:

1. Fascism is a dictatorship in the interest of big business.
2. Fascism observes a doctrine of totalitarian state, or that the state comes first, and individuals are secondary.
3. Fascism denies the freedom of speech and freedom of press upon which democratic forms of government are founded, and
4. Fascism is ruled by the military.

The speaker cited concrete examples of things taking place in the United States today that were analogous to the four qualities of fascism.

NEW JERSEY JOBLESS FORM FARMER-LABOR TO FURTHER WANTS

NEW JERSEY LEGISLATURE FAILED TO VOTE ON RELIEF FINANCING PROGRAM

TRENTON, N. J., Apuri 28.—(AP)—Jobless members of New Jersey's hurriedly former Farmer-Labor party mocked the state assembly today in "legislative" session as Republican leaders sought in conference to agree on a relief financing program and ease the present crisis.

The small band of jobless, rebuffed last night by the legislature which refused to vote on a relief program, decided to form a Farmer-Labor party and use it to carry on its fight for the unemployed and "adequate relief."

Tired from their seven day siege of the state house, some of the jobless, who have slept in swivel chairs or on floors for a week, moved to end their occupation of the assembly chamber but were voted down by others who said the legislature would consider it an admission of defeat. The group decided to stay on at least until Wednesday when the legislature will return.

For four months legislators have failed to agree on relief financing.

THE GIBSON GIRL COIFFEUR.

THE NEW HAIRDRESSING

Miss Forbes, who is always up to the minute, gives you the latest hairdressing styles and tells you how to do it yourself without the aid of an expensive hairdresser.

The hairdressers, who are bound to give us something new no matter how ugly they make us look, have now announced that the latest thing is a revival of the Gibson Girl fashion. I thought the frizzy front of the last few years was ugly enough, but this manages to be even more unbecoming. Nevertheless, for those of you who must be in the mode at any cost, here is how you do it.

E. K. Forbes

In the original days of this fashion the hair was brushed straight back away from the face, and to achieve a proper roll it was either frizzed underneath or brushed over a foundation, commonly called a rat—either method was bad for the hair. What was left of the hair became a bun somewhere or other on the top or back of the head. The present fashion can be carried out with short hair, although you would never think so, for the hair is brushed back but the short ends are neatly curled under and hidden under the roll of the pompadour. Oddly enough the rest of the head does not look badly with its lack of trimming.

This is a severe fashion and requires good features and a generally dignified type. I am told by hairdressers that it is a style much more favored by brunettes than blondes, and indeed much more becoming to them. For dressy wear a few jewelled pins or combs are used partly as ornaments, partly to keep the rolled hair in place. Some women are also imitating the English Court fashions and wear a cluster of feathers at the back and toward one side of the head.

This fashion has one advantage, you can experiment with it without having a lot of your hair cut off. To train the hair to go that way for your experiment, I would suggest that you first dampen the hair and roll it back over a soft pad to shape it.

Mrs. E. B.—Getting rid of blackheads is not entirely a matter of cleansing the skin, as the whole system must be cleansed and kept so, or the skin will be constantly overworked to relieve the strain on the other organs of elimination. The black hardened clog is soil that clings to the oily mass in the distended pore. You may clear this out and do what you can to contract the pore, but the skin cannot be overworked if there is to be any lasting improvement. Beside the internal cleansing and improvement, the skin all over the body could be encouraged to a healthier functioning; that, too, relieves the pores of the skin on the exposed parts of the body from too much work. One of the best ways of clearing the skin is to stimulate it all over the body to greater activity; do this every day, especially at this season of the year, after the winter months when so much heavy clothing has been worn. The bath mitts are useful for this, used dry all over the body to clear off the particles of skin that cling then another one used in the hot bath or shower. The hot shower is especially stimulating, and if taken daily beside the liberal use of the mitt, or the bathbrush, the complexion will be improved without working on spots, that have become weakened because they were easy outlets for toxic accumulations in the system. When possible, give the skin air, also direct sunshine, to help it recover the healthy tone that it likely is in need of, at this time of the year.

NEW YORK, April 30.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened barely steady, unchanged to 3 lower with steadier Liverpool cables offset by Southern selling. May 11.45; July 11.02; Oct. 10.15; Dec. 10.16; Jan. 10.17; March 10.22.

Business was moderately active at the start with prices lower under overnight selling orders from the South and New Orleans.

The relatively steady Liverpool cables evidently failed to encourage aggressive New York buying. There was some further selling attributed to selling against recent operations in loan cotton and also considerable liquidation in May.

On the whole, the early offerings seemed to be fairly well divided with the market at the end of the first hour quiet and around 10.14 for Oct. with the general list about 1 to 3 points net lower.

The market was quiet later in the morning and after selling off to 10.99 for July, or about 2 to 5 points net lower, prices steadied on trade buying and covering. Buyers showed little inclination to follow up bulges however, and the market at mid-day was within a point or two of the lowest with May selling at 11.44 and Dec. at 10.14.

Futures closed steady, unchanged to 2 lower. Spot quiet; middling 11.55.

New Orleans Cotton Stronger.

NEW ORLEANS, April 30.—(AP)—Three days of declining prices were halted at the opening of the cotton market today as active months scored small advances.

May held above the previous close during the morning but other options sold off as July dipped to 10.05 and Oct. and Dec. both sold at 10.10. The spot month was 2 points higher at 11.37, during the middle of trading period.

Non-Competitive Bid Reported Received

WASHINGTON, April 30.—(AP)—John Norris, former Texas water board member, testified today the board had reports there would be no competitive bidding on California redwood if it was accepted for construction of an irrigation project in Willacy county, Tex.

Counsel for seven men indicted for conspiracy to defraud the government in connection with a $4,853,000 public works administration loan and grant for this system sought to show that the California redwood companies tried to assure the board closed bidding was not contemplated.

The government countered that this assurance was prompted by William A. Harding, a Willacy county irrigation district board member and one of the defendants.

Norris disclosed that during a discussion of contemplated materials late in 1934 with James Barry, a California redwood representative and another defendant, he obtained technical information that redwood had less strength than Douglas fir, which also was being considered at that time.

Part of Norris' testimony revolved around a bill introduced in the Texas senate intended to permit speedy approval of plans for the Willacy project so the proposed loan and grant could be expedited.

Defense counsel undertook to show yesterday that the Willacy representatives experienced numerous delays in efforts to have the water board approve their project and caused a bill to be introduced, which in effect, would exempt the project from statutes making water board approval of specifications necessary. The testimony also was intended to show that before the legislation could be enacted, the board and Willacy representatives agreed on materials which might be contained in these specifications.

BULLISH FORCES UNLIMBER ATTACK BUT SALES CONTINUE

LIST BREAKS SHARPLY NEAR NOON BUT PACE SLOWS LATER

NEW YORK, April 30.—(AP)—Steels and rails rallied a shaky stock market today for net gains of fractions to 3 or more points. There were a few wider advances at the close.

The ticker tape fell behind on the late upturn as the buying rush enveloped virtually the entire list. Transfers approximated 2,500,000 shares.

By VICTOR EUBANK
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, April 30.—(AP)—Bullish forces unlimbered their small artillery in today's stock market, but selling sorties continued with only minor interruptions.

The list broke sharply around noon, with many issues dropping 1 to around 4 points. For a while the ticker tape was late. The pace slowed subsequently as the decline leveled off appreciably.

Near the beginning of the fourth hour American Telephone had added more than 2 points to its 6-point loss of Wednesday. Case was off 3 and Johns-Manville 2. Losers of as much as a point or more included Chrysler, General Motors, U. S. Steel, Anaconda, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Western Union, Westinghouse, International Harvester and North American.

The rails, mines and specialties were given a rallying push in early dealings, and these maintained a fairly steady tone in comprison with other groups.

Secondary bonds turned rather heavy. Commodities were mixed, as were leading foreign currencies in terms of the dollar.

Wall Street still had its worries over the French elections, the corporation tax bill now before the senate and other more or less intangible influences. But the largest question mark was back of the theory advanced by analysts that many equity prices may have outrun business and industrial progress. There were plenty of arguments on both sides.

Curb Steadier.

NEW YORK, April 30.—(AP)—Curb market stocks displayed a steadier tone in light trading today.

Gains of a point or so were registered by Pittsburgh Plate Glass, Lynch Corp., Pan American Airways, Hudson Bay, United Shoe Machinery and Lake Shore Mines. Fractional improvement was shown by American Cyanamid "B," Creole Petroleum and Flintkote.

NAVY BILL

that may be built under existing agreements.

Provision also was made for 33 more airplanes for the regular navy but two non-rigid airships were disallowed.

The bill authorized boosting the naval enlisted strength from 93,500 to 100,000 with 3,000 to be added the next year, and increasing the marine corps enlisted strength from 16,000 to 17,000 with 500 to be taken in during the year. The committee said the actual increase for the navy would be 8,500 from the 88,000 appropriated for this year.

House Debates Navy Appropriation Bill

WASHINGTON, April 30.—(AP)—The house gathered today to debate a record peace-time navy appropriation bill—calling for the spending of $549,000,000. Leaders strove for quick action.

As the measure, nearly $68,000,000 higher than the last outlay, neared the floor, there were indications that authorizations may later be added for two 35,000-ton battleships, eventually to cost between $80,000,000 and $100,000,000.

Admiral William H. Standley, acting secretary of the navy, yesterday mentioned British plans to construct two new battlecraft next year and said American building was justified.

At the time the hearing started the navy bill provided $26,400,000 for 33 new airplanes, and $13,980,369 for laying down 12 destroyers and six submarines, with a total of $182,500,000 for ship construction. Details of its present contents were to be disclosed today.

If the new United States ships should be authorized, they would replace the Arkansas, of 26,000 tons displacement, and the Texas of 27,000 tons, both of which approach the over-age mark as fixed in the new London naval treaty, now awaiting ratification.

EXCURSION

nips with the tender roots are boiled with ham, and the dish is served with vinegar. People who like olives would be the first to acquire a taste for turnip-top salad. A Texas oyster stew was served at the dinner first—large, plump oysters from the Gulf, which earlier in the season must have had a flavor of the Connecticutt oyster. The table was loaded with vegetables fresh from the garden. The baked sweet potatoes were sticky from an excudation of sugar, and the potato itself, not so mealy as those that reach the North. The butter was almost white but not tasteless as one might expect. Prejudice against color, by the way, kept several of the excursion party this week from tasting southern butter. The windows and doors were all wide open during the dinner, and a white servant stood over the guests fanning away occasional flies. The thermometer stood at 75, a refreshing breeze was blowing and a mockingbird in a neighboring tree gave by his many-themed song just that pitch of luxury which is the dream of Northern-bred people. This is no culinary letter, but it may be further said that the ham served at breakfast is simply delicious. For the morning meal also grits or a kind of hominy, groats or a preparation of oats (not oatmeal), muffins with hot New Orleans molasses, beef brains, cooked something like scrambled eggs, and salads in every form are the dishes most noticed by strangers.

Toured City.

The excursionists were driven in carriages about the town Saturday afternoon, or evening, as people say here; but, as most of the places examined were mills or industrial enterprises, we will leave the details for a separate letter, devoted especially to the industrial situation. If Saturday was a day of surprises the most complete one was reserved for the night. The city hall had been thrown open for a public reception. It was lighted with electricity, and profusely decorated with flags, streamers and flowers in profusion, right from the garden. The excursionists in tourists' dress were conducted to the hall filled with Corsicana's best and bravest. There was a good deal of dressing, but no general rule of costume. Many young women wore gloves to the elbow, and tasteful gowns trimmed with lace. Some wore wide, picturesque hats, with one side caught up to the crown, and in general bright colors and bright tints prevailed. After a social hour the mayor delivered a short address of welcome, and other addresses followed. The evening closed with a collation.

Visited Negro Churches.

The colored churches were not forgotten by the excursionists on Sunday, and those who visited the east side, where there is a thriving community called Lewisville, were well repaid. At the First Baptist colored church Rev. Pardee delivered a sermon to the sisters. It was an intelligent and well-digested discourse, and many removes from the emotional features that amuse the frivolous. The women at one point in the sermon broke out in a low wail or chant; but the pastor silenced them with a wave of his hand. The congregation was neatly dressed and orderly. There has been little change in the appearance of the African congregation since the emancipation proclamation, but the new conditions are apparent. In the old days, masters would give slaves their cast-off clothing, and thus it was that some pretty rich clothing was seen in the colored churches. But now very few negroes will accept as a gift second-hand clothing from anyone. In this regard at least they have learned the lesson of individual independence.

Two Important Events.

There are still two important events of the week in the amusement line to be spoken of—the mule rabbit chase on Monday and the "fish-fry" on Tuesday. The first was a sport long to be remembered. The scene of the chase was about six miles from the city, in a region of native prairie land, which, owing to litigation has never been fenced in. The land formed a part of the William E. Dodge estate. A party of about 30 horses and nearly as many buggies took part in the chase. The interest in the buggy race lay in the fact that the first woman that arrived after the brush (or more accurately the ear) was secured was entitled to it by a rule of chivalry. Half a dozen mule rabbits were started, and the prairie was so smooth, though rolling, that even the buggy horses were driven at a full gallop behind the hounds. The fish-fry was a decidedly unique affair. The "tank" is a very important institution in Texas. While there is good subterranean water here, many towns have thus far failed to utilize it. Corsicana relies upon surface water. A small watershed of a few hundred acres has been selected and a pond or tank for storing water for the town secured. This tank is stocked with perch, which go here by the name of trout. A clubhouse stands on the shores of the tank, which thus becomes a favorite resort of excursion parties. The fish-fry given in honor of the excursionists was attended by about 300. Some ambitious fishers began operations at 5 in the morning and by afternoon enough fish had been caught to feed a crowd twice as large. Carriages and horsemen were going and coming from the "tank" all day and by 6 p. m. the hungry throng was ready for the fish dinner. A band of music was in attendance, and shortly after 8 the speaking began. Abner S. Underhill of New York read some resolutions of thanks to the people of Corsicana, and several of the visiting party responded to toasts. Then the banquet hall was cleared for dancing.

Visited Waco.

Several towns sent the party cordial invitations, but it was possible to accept only one from Waco, a town of 20,000 inhabitants about 50 miles distant. The visitors reached Waco on Wednesday, were driven about the city, and in the evening were received at the opera house. Mayor Hinchman presided. The house was filled with a fashionable audience. Addresses of welcome were delivered, and two of the Northern visitors spoke in response. The people of the heart of Texas may not be reconstructed, but if not their words do not show it. Agriculture, the public schools, railroads and factories are about the only important topics of conversation down here. The opera-house reception was followed by a banquet, and after that came more speaking. Some of the visitors took a night run to Austin to get a glimpse of the $2,000,000 surplus and the new capitol building, and all returned today to Corsicana, where the party breaks up. Charles Bill starts for Kansas and Colorado tomorrow upon a tour of about a month.

Since leaving St. Louis over a dozen men have sought occasion to express their admiration for the late Samuel Bowles. These testimonials becoming so frequent, your correspondent finally asked a Southerner, who was a reader of the Republican before the war, what there was in Mr. Bowles that commanded his attention, and he replied: "His independence, sir. He was an honest man and an able man. I differed with him, of course, but I always wanted to know what Sam Bowles had to say."

Personnel of Party.

CARLTON D. SPEED HAS ORGANIZED THE SPEED OIL COMPANY

The following article concerning Carlton Speed, Jr., a former Corsicanan, accompanied a picture of him in Sunday's Dallas ews, which will be read with interest by his and his parents many friends:

In the oil business since he was 10 years old, Carlton D. Speed, Jr., well known in Dallas, has just organized the Speed Oil Company with offices in the Second National Bank building at Houston to engage in general lease and royalty trading, assembling of lease blocks, appraisals and geological surveys.

Born into the oil industry as the son of C. D. Speed, Sr., who has produced oil at Corsicana continually for thirty-six years, the younger Speed, now 32, grew up around wells, one being in the yard of his home. When he was 10 he began working on wells and in 1920, at 17, started working in oil fields during the summer as pipeliner, roustabout, gauger, roughneck and other capacities, earning money for his college education. Four years after graduation from Corsicana high school Speed received his B. S. degree from Texas A. and M. College with a B average despite his lettering in football, basketball and track and participating in other school activities. In 1926 he worked for the Atlantic Oil Producing Company along the Mexia-Corsicana fault zone, doing seismograph and torsion balance work. The next two years he spent at the University of Chicago doing post-graduate work in geology and paleontology, returning in 1929 to the geological department of the Gypsy Oil Company in Oklahoma and Texas.

In 1931 he operated as an independent, assembling four wildcat blocks and drilling four dry holes. For the next three years he served as geologist for various independents with extensive Woodbine production, including several in Dallas. The winter of 1935-36 was spent in Michigan and Canada in consulting work, Speed having just returned to Texas and completed arrangements for opening his own offices.

Young People's Epworth Union In Session Tuesday

The young people's Epworth Union at the Eleventh Avenue Methodist church Tuesday night, April 28, with the Kerens league giving the following program:

Song—"Showers of Blessings."

Prayer—Dr. C. R. Gray.

Vocal solo—Miss Burnell Chapman, accompanied by Mrs. Chapman.

A musical selection by Rev. C. L. Wilkins, played on a saw, accompanied by Mrs. Chapman, was highly interesting.

Rev. Joe Everheart, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Kerens was the speaker for the evening. His message, a very interesting one, was "Youth and Religion."

Milton Campbell, president of the union, then took charge of the business session.

He announced that the picnic honoring the winner would be in June instead of May, and that Rev. Hugh S. Porter, young people's district director, would possibly be the speaker in May.

Miss Katherine McMullen, Tupelo, took up her duties as secretary-treasurer, and Miss Jewel Bruner, Kerens, the outgoing scribe, became an ex-officio as a member of the advisory board.

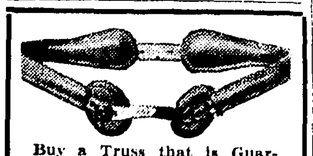

First Methodist church of Corsicana was accorded first place in the contest with a margin of eleven points over Eleventh Avenue and Kerens.

After the dismissal prayer by the president, all enjoyed the games played in the primary room of the church. Following the games cheeries were served to the 135 present.

Eleventh Avenue Methodist will direct the program when the union meets at Tupelo in May.

EMBITTERED BY INGRATITUDE, RELIEF WORKERS QUIT TASKS *

Human Nature In Its Rawness—And Royalty —Revealed By Depression — The Story of Jesus and the Lepers—Modern Instances—Good Manners As a Social Force.

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS

Some years ago, when lecturing on a Chautauqua circuit, one of my fellow workers, a college graduate, came to me with the commonest question that youth takes to older men for counsel: "What shall I do to find my life-work?" In his case, because of his peculiar qualifications, the answer was easy for experience to give; so I directed him to a certain great organization which I thought could use his talents.

I heard nothing further until, several years later, I met the young man on the street, and asked after his affairs. "Why, don't you know? I followed your advice and got a job with the blank organization to which you sent me; and it is now paying me nine thousand dollars a year." It had never occurred to the fortunate youth to drop me a word of thanks. As he left me, I found myself murmuring, "Where are the nine?"

Every helper of his fellows can relate a succession of such stories of apparent ingratitude; appreciation may be felt, but it has not been spoken. During these depression years the strain upon volunteer relief workers has been heavy; and many have quit in bitterness because they have not heard a single "Thank you" from those whom they have served. No other factor has been so great as this one in slowing up welfare gifts and activities. Many social workers would say that the percentage of gratitude found by Jesus among the healed lepers—one in ten—was higher than the average.

"Unclean! Unclean!"

That lepers were the recipients intensifies this familiar incident from Luke's Gospel. There is no other disease so dread as leprosy; and, until recent years, no cure was known. By the Mosaic law, lepers were required to keep apart from their kind. At the approach of strangers they cried, "Unclean! Unclean!"

Such a miserable group, up near the border of Galilee and Samaria, hailed Jesus, as He went on His momentous journey to Jerusalem. Only those who know leprosy can understand the horror of the spectacle of those miserable creatures, with bloated skin, and, often, with members missing. Before the British came to Palestone, a cluster of lepers used to beg at the bridge over the brook Kedron, between Jerusalem and the Mount of Olives.

So great was the name of Jesus, the healer, that it had reached to a cluster of outcasts, who, having heard of His coming, awaited Him off from the roadside. As He appeared, their husky throats cried, "Jesus, Master, have mercy upon us!" The loving heart of the Great Physician, who is never deaf to any plea of need, made instant answer, in one of the most remarkable miracles ever recorded in the New Testament. Jesus did not have personal contact with the suppliants; only by His word He granted them the priceless boon they sought. He bade the lepers show themselves to the priests; and as they went they were made clean of their loathsome disease.

"Where Are The Nine?"

Only one of the transformed came back to render thanks for a boon beyond all measure. This failure evoked from the heart of Jesus the poignant phrase, "Where are the nine?" Evidently, gratitude was prized by the Master. Jesus humanly longed, as do all of us, for understanding and appreciation. Indeed, is not the Bible full of exhortations to give thanks?

Most of us fall down right here. We lack this quality which is a first mark of a gentleman and a Christian. Our common failure, and that of the nine lepers, is not only a lack of common courtesy, but also a denial of that principle expressed by the Psalmist: "Let the redeemed of the Lord say so."

All the helpers of men who have been led to quit by lack of appreciation—and how bitterly I have frequently heard men express themselves upon public ingratitude!—have, in spirit, repeated Christ's reproachful, "Where are the nine?"

Well, some of them are reading these lines. In these post-war years even the civilities of dinner calls, and "bread and butter letters," have been discarded, as every hospitable home can testify. Public speakers can tell a shameful tale of not even perfunctory notes of thanks from committees that diligently sought their services. Newspaper editors, common belief to the contrary notwithstanding, seldom get letters of thanks for their best editorials and features. This generation is not characterized by the gracious spirit of appreciation, which has always been assumed to be one of the first marks of culture.

What Ails Our Time?

Look a little deeper into this theme, and you will find one of the fundamental ills of our era. We are a captious, critical, censorious generation. Our newspapers have opened their pages to key-hole columnists, professional disparagers of public men, and critical commentators who pick flaws in everything. We are just now passing out of an era of "debunking" in general literature. One popular novelist has made Main Street an object of contempt and ridicule; and has coined a new name of derision, "Babbit," for the average business man. It is our day's disposition to talk about the spots on the sun; and to ignore the sunshine. All speaking platforms, including, too often, the pulpit, are infested with professional decriers of everything new and constructive.

Of generous, grateful and loyal spirits our times suffer a serious dearth. Both vital religion and constructive patriotism are at a discount today, with critics mouthing their picayune complaints everywhere. Where is our real and spacious sense of the greatness of our country; of the magnitude of society's efforts to combat the depression and improve the social order, and of the beauty and beneficence of religion's unflagging service to the world? The stark facts of contemporary life, honestly faced, call for a mood of gratitude and praise. Great healings have been wrought, immnese progress has been made toward a finer order of life; yet, "Where are the nine?"

It is opportune that this challenging Lesson, straight out of the experience of Jesus, should summon us all to an exercise of the cardinal virtue of gratitude.
